Twelve other occupants of the building had narrow escapes from death. Mrs. Katherine Devite, who conducted a boarding house, and Carl G. Cosper, a lodger, were painfully burned.

PANIC IN HOTEL AT BEAVER FALLS CAUSED BY FIRE

The Guests Have a Rude Awakening in Early Morning.

RUSH FRANTICALLY INTO THE STREET

Neighboring Building Was Consumed, Causing Loss of $72,000.

BIG BLOCK CONTAINED SHOPS AND STORES

Was Owned by the Hon. Simon Harold and Valued at $20,000. Firemen Prevented Destruction of Adjoining Property.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BEAVER FALLS, PA., March 9.—The Harold block at the corner of Fifth street and Seventh avenue was consumed by flames at 5 o'clock this morning, causing a loss of about $72,000 and inciting a panic among the guests at the Seventh Avenue hotel. The hotel is in close proximity to the ruined building, and the guests had a rude awakening by the roaring blaze that leaped up into the air near their sleeping apartments. When the guests were aroused the greatest excitement prevailed, many rushing frantically into the street clad in their night robes. The guests carried much of their effects into the street after the first excitement was over, as the hotel was for a time in imminent danger of destruction.

Invalid Not Disturbed.

Mrs. Hughes, wife of Fred Hughes, one of the proprietors of the hotel, was lying ill with fever, but she was not much disturbed by the excitement about the house.

The fire was discovered by Robert Smith, night porter at the Seventh Avenue hotel, and four minutes later the fire department had water playing on the building, but the flames had gained such headway before discovery that it was impossible to save the building.

The burned building was a two-story brick and stone structure, 100x145 feet. The entire second-story was occupied by the trousers factory of Smith & Winkiehor, employing 100 girls and women, and filled with valuable machinery, among which 36 sewing machines, electric cutting machines, etc.

Heavy Losses Sustained.

The first floor was occupied by the wire mat factory of Frank McPherson, the factory for electrical appliances of Charles Skiff, grocery store of McCandless Brothers, and the grocery and seed store of Edward Keyser. Everything in the building is a total loss. The fire was first seen issuing from the windows of the trousers factory. How it originated is unknown, though it is thought an over pressure of gas in a jet ignited some clothing placed too near it.

The building belonged to the Hon. Simon Harold, ex-member of the legislature. The losses and insurances as far as can be ascertained are: Building, $20,000, insurance $7,000; Smith & Winkiehor, factory, $60,000, partially insured; McPherson wire mat factory, stock and machinery, $5,000, insurance $4,000; Charles Skiff, electrical appliances, $1,500, no insurance; McCandless Brothers, grocery, $2,500, insurance not known. Edward Keyser, $3,000, insurance $1,200.

Hugh White, residing next door to the burning building, moved his household goods into an open lot nearby when sparks damaged them to the extent of several hundred dollars.

NICARAGUA AN UNSAFE REFUGE FOR FUGITIVES

John F. Gaynor and D. B. Greene May Be Extradicted if They Have Gone There.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.—If John F. Gaynor and D. B. Greene, wanted in Savannah for trial in connection with the conspiracy to defraud the government of which O. F. Carter, the late captain of engineers, was the principal figure, have fled to Nicaragua, they can be extradited by this government. Senor Don Luis Corea, the Nicaragua minister, said this afternoon that, while negotiations for a new extradition treaty are under way, that which was signed in 1870 is still in force, and has not been abrogated.

The treaty which will shortly expire is that signed in 1867, entitled "a treaty of friendship, commerce, and navigation" and containing provisions relative to isthmian transit. It is not believed by officials that there will be any difficulty in obtaining the extradition of Gaynor and Greene in case they should seek asylum in Nicaragua. Should the fugitives be prepared to disburse large sums of money, they could perhaps effect a stay of proceedings, but, as the United States is interested, the government of Nicaragua would, it is believed, be urged to facilitate extradition.

Should Gaynor and Greene be located in Nicaragua a requisition for their surrender will be made by Minister Merry. A duly authenticated copy of the warrant for their arrest, with the depositions upon which the warrants were issued, will be transmitted to the Nicaraguan government with the requisitions. "The proper executive authority of Nicaragua may then," the treaty provides, "issue a warrant for the apprehension of the fugitives, in order that they may be brought before the proper judicial authority for examining the question of extradition. If it should then be decided that, according to law and evidence, the extradition is due pursuant to this treaty, the fugitive may be given up according to the forms prescribed in such cases."

BONUS FOR MAUDE ADAMS.

Congress Will Pay Her for Horses and Mules Owned by Her Grandfather.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.—(Special)—Miss Maude Adams, the well-known actress, benefits to the extent of $2,000 by a bill which has just passed the senate and house and gone to the court of claims.

During the civil war Miss Adams' grandfather, who lived in Tiffin, O., shipped horses and mules to the northern army. These fell into the hands of the confederates and never reached their destination. Now the heirs have put in a claim to recover the loss and congress has given its approval.

MARCONI TELEGRAPH FAILED WHEN ETRURIA BROKE DOWN

Disabled Steamship, Which Reaches the Azores, Made Futile Attempt to Notify the Umbria of Her Mishap.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

HORTA, AZORES, March 9.—The Etruria anchored here at 6 o'clock this (Sunday) evening. All on board are well. She had a comparatively uneventful passage, except for the break down, which occurred during the dinner hour of February 26. When this occurred the Etruria had only just finished speaking by wireless telegraphy with the Cunard line steamship Umbria. After the accident was discovered the Etruria called the Umbria wirelessly for one hour, but without success.

Upon examination it was found that the ship's propeller had broken off outside the tube and that the rudder had been carried away by the propeller. The Etruria then sent up rockets, which were seen by the British steamer William Cliff.

The latter bore down and was alongside in 50 minutes after the accident. She stood by until day light, when, after several attempts, she succeeded in passing a hawser aboard the Etruria. The tank steamer Ottawa arrived on the scene at this time. The William Cliff then attempted to tow the Etruria while the Ottawa attempted to steer her. The hawser, however, snapped. The Ottawa stood by for two days and then left for Fayal, bearing the second officer of the Etruria to report the disaster and obtain assistance.

In the meanwhile the crew of the Etruria had made every effort to rig a jury rudder. The first such rudder carried away immediately when an attempt was made to use it. After further efforts lasting for two days a second jury rudder was successfully adjusted and is still in position.

The passengers of the Etruria were satisfied they were in no danger and they praise the conduct of the captain and crew of the vessel. After the accident the passengers amused themselves with the usual deck sports, and concerts were held in the first and second cabin. Only those who were anxious concerning business matters chafed at the unavoidable delay.

The Etruria reports having sighted the Italian mail steamer Sardegna from Naples February 26 for New York, last Wednesday, March 5. The Sardegna stood by, but finding she could be of no assistance, proceeded on her course.

The Etruria was hoping to communicate with the North German Lloyd steamer Kron Prinz Wilhelm by wireless telegraphy. But her mast wire broke in several places and she was unable to repair it until the weather had improved, when it was too late. After the accident the passage of the Cunard steamer was entirely uneventful, and there occurred nothing of interest beyond the daily runs of the vessel which ranged from 60 to 100 knots.

The Etruria will wait here for the arrival of the royal mail steamer Elbe, which left Southampton for Horta yesterday. The Elbe will carry the Etruria's passengers to England. The Etruria will then be towed home by the two tugs which are now on their way out from Liverpool for this purpose.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, March 9.—Prince Henry of Prussia was the central figure today in another round of entertainment arranged in his honor. He first listened to a concert at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, largely made up of his favorite American songs, the concert being arranged at his request. When that was over he drove to the University club to a luncheon, which was not concluded until mid-afternoon. In the evening he was the guest at dinner of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, and met a large party made up of persons of social prominence.

When the prince bade farewell to the company at the Vanderbilt home he went to the New York Yacht club for an informal reception and the hour was late when he returned to the Waldorf-Astoria for the night.

Arranges for Homeward Trip.

He found time between the four main events on his program for the day to receive a delegation representing the Commercial club of St. Paul, and several callers, and to finally complete the arrangements for the last two days' stay in the country and his departure for home. He had intended to be present at the religious service on the imperial yacht Hohenzollern in the morning, but the case of scarlet fever which developed there several days ago altered that plan. Instead he remained at the hotel, arising late and breakfasting at his leisure.

It was the Arion society of Brooklyn, winner of the kaiser's prize at the singing festival in Brooklyn in 1900, that furnished the morning concert for the prince at the hotel.

Serenaders Hurriedly Summoned.

It had been originally arranged that the singers should serenade the prince aboard the Hohenzollern yesterday, but in the change of plan the serenade was abandoned. The prince met Dr. W. John Schlidge, chairman of the musical committee of the society, at the dinner Saturday night and expressed regret that he was not to have a chance to hear the club sing. The doctor suggested that it might still take place at the hotel and the prince approved the plan. It was midnight, with but a few hours to arrange the affair remaining. Telegrams and telephone messages were hurried out to the members and by 11 o'clock 150 of them had reported at the hotel.

Sang American Songs.

The concert took place in the Astor gallery and began at 11:30. The prince sat in the center of the hall, surrounded by the members of his suite, the American escort, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul General Buenz and Consul Geissler. The chorus first sang "Pries Lied," and after that, at the request of the prince, an extended program which included "Old Kentucky Home" and "Dixie." The concluding number was Kreutzer's "The Lord's Own Day," and it was rendered very effectively. The prince was delighted with the serenade and after shaking hands with the officers of the society addressed the members briefly in German. He thanked them for what they had done for him and congratulated them on their excellent musical ability. He said in part:

Singers Highly Complimented.

"I never heard sweeter or softer music from a male choir. I have heard other music in this country which has given me great delight and it has brought me to the conclusion that music is born in the human heart without regard to race or color. You should cultivate music not only as a boon to yourselves but for the benefit of others."

The Arion society presented the prince with an illuminated address and announced that during the day a cable message suitable to the occasion would be drafted and sent to the kaiser.

Lunched at University Club.

The luncheon at the University club was given by the committee named by President Roosevelt to arrange for the visit of the prince and escort him on his tour, and the hosts were Gen. Corbin, Assistant Secretary of State Hill, Admiral Evans, Col. Bingham and Commander Cowles.

The party left the hotel at 12:45 o'clock with mounted police as special guard for the carriage of the prince. A great crowd saw the departure from the hotel and the

SENATOR QUAY WOULD NOT DECLARE IN FAVOR OF ELKIN

He Believes the Republican Voters of the State Know What They Want and Mean to Have It.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
603 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.

According to the advices received here tonight Insurance Commissioner Durham of Philadelphia did not succeed in persuading Senator Quay to declare in favor of the nomination of Attorney General Elkin for governor this year. The senator, it is understood, declined emphatically to commit himself in favor of the nomination of Mr. Elkin and he would not promise not to oppose the nomination of Mr. Elkin when the convention met.

The senator told Mr. Durham that there was time enough yet to decide the matter and that he was of the opinion that the Republican voters of the state were perfectly competent to decide whom they wished nominated. They had shown that in Pittsburgh by an emphatic majority and after 40 years' work among the Republicans of the state he had grown to know that the rank and file of the party knew what they wanted and did not care to have their ticket fixed up in advance by their leaders.

Voters Will Not Be Forced.

Since the Pittsburgh election, the senator said, he had heard from every county in the state and the majority of the writers advised against any action that could be construed as forcing the nomination of an unpopular candidate.

Mr. Durham and his associates endeavored, but unsuccessfully, to convince the senator that his informants were wrong. His last words to Durham were: "Wait a month or so longer and the situation may clear up somewhat."

This information was given to the writer today by a member of the delegation who was in Philadelphia yesterday and had a talk with Mr. Durham, but did not desire to have his name used. He gathered the impression that Durham is ready to acquiesce in the selection of another candidate for governor whenever Senator Quay said that it would be dangerous to nominate Mr. Elkin.

Lancaster County Worries Stone.

From reliable advices received here it appears that the Stone machine is greatly worried over the situation in Lancaster county.

Secretary Griest has been supreme in that county, but it is now declared that he has the fight of his life on his hands. Last year he had all he could do to nominate Representative Cassel at the primaries over Dr. Brecht. This year Dr. Brecht has joined hands with ex-Lieut. Gov. Watres and they are making a joint fight to carry the county with the chances most favorable. Representative Cassel is spending nearly all of his time at home and all the Lancaster county employes in the government departments here are being urged to go home and vote at the primaries.

Without the support of Lancaster and Allegheny counties with their 50 votes in the convention Elkin, it is believed here, could not be nominated.

Representative J. K. P. Hall of Ridgeway today announced that under no circumstances would he accept the position of chairman of the Democratic campaign committee which was tendered to him yesterday by a large majority of Democratic members. Mr. Hall says that he has no desire to be chosen to the position and would not accept if nominated. Mr. Hall still has his eye on the Democratic nomination for governor.

TRAIN IS DELAYED BY GRUESOME MISHAPS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 9.—The fast freight, eastbound, due here at 2 o'clock this morning, had a rather unusual and unpleasant experience between Trenton and this city. Two dead men were encountered, one of them having been killed by the train itself, and once the train was stopped to search for a body which could not be found.

The run from Philadelphia was uneventful until, as the train approached Princeton Junction, it hit and killed a man. The train stopped and the body was cared for and left at the junction to be shipped to Trenton, it being in Mercer county.

When near Monmouth Junction the train was stopped at a signal from the head brakeman, who said it had hit another man and he had seen the body hurled into a ditch. A search of the track for a mile back failed to locate the supposed victim. The train was again started east, and as it neared Millstone the glare of the headlight revealed the body of another man lying by the rails. The engineer stopped and the body was picked up and brought to this place. It was that of Howard R. Breese of New Brunswick. He is supposed to have been struck about 11 o'clock by another train while walking home from Franklin Park.

TRENTON, March 9.—The Trenton Coachmen's union at a meeting last night decided not to attend Sunday funerals. In this move they have the support of all the undertakers of the city except one, who had a funeral today. His drivers will be expelled from the union.

DANIEL AGNEW, FAMOUS JURIST, PASSES AWAY

DIES AT BEAVER HOME AT AGE OF 93 YEARS

UPHELD LINCOLN'S HANDS IN DARK DAYS

Remarkable Tribute Paid to the Justice by the Bar of Allegheny County When He Retired from the Bench—Date of Funeral.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BEAVER, PA., March 9.—Ex-Chief Justice Daniel Agnew passed away at 3 o'clock this morning at his home on North Park, just across the street from the court house, where he began his illustrious career as a jurist. He was surrounded by his children and grandchildren.

The end was not unexpected, as the justice had been an invalid, requiring the constant care of an attendant for the past three years. Added to this was his extreme age, 93 years, with its attendant infirmities.

The funeral will be held in the Beaver Methodist Episcopal church at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Settled Early in Pittsburgh.

Ex-Chief Justice Daniel Agnew was born in Trenton, N. J., January 5, 1809. While yet a lad his parents came to Western Pennsylvania and after a brief sojourn in Butler county, settled in Pittsburgh. On reaching manhood Daniel left the parental roof to go a little farther west and grow up with Beaver county.

His father, Dr. James Agnew, was a native of Princeton, N. J., and a graduate of its university. He studied medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, graduating in 1800. His mother, Sarah B. Howell, was the daughter of Gov. Richard Howell of New Jersey.

Daniel Agnew was educated in the Western University of Pennsylvania, in Pittsburgh and studied law under Henry Baldwin and W. W. Fetterman. He was admitted to practice in the spring of 1828 and opened an office in Pittsburgh. Not succeeding as he wished he went to Beaver, intending to return in a year or two. He soon created a practice, however, which decided him to remain in Beaver permanently. Land titles were unsettled in that western country and young Agnew had a chance to show what he was made of and was prompt to improve it. He soon gained a high standing as a land lawyer with a large practice.

Married Miss Elizabeth Moore.

In July, 1831, he married Miss Elizabeth Moore, daughter of Gen. Robert Moore, a leading lawyer of Beaver and a representative in congress.

His first services to the commonwealth at large was in 1837 as a member of the constitutional convention which sat in Harrisburg and Philadelphia, forming a series of amendments to the constitution. He was active in politics in Beaver county, being the recognized leader of the Whig party and one of the organizers of the National Republican party.

In 1851 he was appointed by Gov. Johnson president judge of the Seventeenth district, then composed of Beaver, Butler, Lawrence and Mercer counties. He was confirmed the following October by the people electing him for a term of 10 years. In 1861 he was re-elected without opposition. Although he had dropped active work in politics, he did not consider that his duties as a judge superseded his duties as a citizen, and when the rebellion broke out, was an ardent supporter of the union cause.

Boldly Defined Treason.

The West Virginia panhandle made Beaver a border county and a committee of public safety with 100 members was appointed with Judge Agnew as its chairman. All his energies were bent to preserve order. Other judges were timorous, but he never hesitated. In 1861 he instructed the grand jurors of Lawrence county that treason was a crime and all who had a part in it were criminals under the law. Had other northern judges everywhere displayed the same spirit, the progress of our arms would not have been so often obstructed and the war prolonged by demoralizing fire in the rear.

Judge Agnew's fame had been confined to Western Pennsylvania, but at this time, in answer to those who denied the power of the government to maintain itself against domestic assaults, he delivered a carefully prepared address on the "National Constitution in Its Adaptation to a State of War." This address was so timely and so strong that it at once invited public attention. By special request of the members of the legislature, Judge Agnew repeated his address in Harrisburg in February, 1863. Secretary Stanton called for a copy of it and the Union leagues prepared two large editions of it and had them scattered broadcast over the country.

Affirmed the Draft Law.

When Chief Justice Lowarie's term in the supreme court was about to expire, the author of the address, while absent in the west and without an effort on his part, was elected by the Republicans in October, 1863, to succeed him. The question of the constitutionality of the draft law came up immediately after his accension to the bench, and as the senior members were evenly divided on the question, it developed upon the new judge to decide the question and his first opinion was in affirmation of the law.

To give an adequate idea of the impress which Judge Agnew made through his decisions upon the law of Pennsylvania is beyond the scope of this sketch. The reports of the entire 15 years he was in the supreme court bear testimony of his prodigious industry. They show him to have been one of the broad-minded judges who have regard to the spirit of the law rather than the letter. He became chief justice in 1863 and continued until 1879, when the state lost from its supreme court one of the strongest members and best judicial minds that body ever possessed. He is spoken of as one of the great triumvirate composed of Judges Black, Gibson and Agnew.

Retirement from Public Life.

Judge Agnew retired from public life at the age of 70. He was several times afterward pressed to become a candidate and was once offered the attorney generalship in writing under the incoming administration but declined effect time after his retirement ed law. He was engaged in important cases, especially those out of the riots at the Union de- and also the famous Kelly case he argued before the supreme court e United States.

dge Agnew was always a strong ad- e of temperance. In the year 1880 became president of the constitutional endment association. The effect was to carry the amendment in the house by a vote of almost two to one, and the ultimate passage of the amendment by the assembly of 1889.

Two Degrees Conferred Upon Him.

The degrees of doctor of laws was twice conferred upon him, once by Washington college and later by Dickinson. Occasionally he delivered public addresses. On Gen. Grant's return from his trip around the world, he was selected to deliver the address in Pittsburgh and delivered two elaborate addresses during the Garfield campaign. His last public appearance was when in October, 1896, he presided at and addressed a Republican mass meeting in New Brighton.

His family consisted of six children, four of whom are living. Two sons, the eldest the Hon. F. H. Agnew is practicing law in Beaver and the younger, Robert M., is an attorney in Lancaster, Pa. One of his daughters is the wife of the Hon. Henry Rice of Beaver, late president judge of the court Judge Agnew formerly presided over. The other, the wife of the Rev. Walter Brown of Cadiz, O., has lived in Beaver and kept house for her father since the death of Mrs. Agnew.

Maj. A. M. Brown's Tribute.

Maj. A. M. Brown, a friend of Chief Justice Agnew for many years, learned of his death with deep regret. In speaking of him last evening Mr. Brown said:

"Chief Justice Agnew was a learned and just judge, commanding the respect of the entire bar. He had all the principles of a thorough gentleman and an old-time judge, and his courtesy and respect for counsel was proverbial. Before he was elected to the supreme court in December, 1863, and while he was judge of Beaver county and the president judge of the Beaver, Butler and Lawrence district, his decisions were accepted without appeal to the supreme court. No appeal was ever taken from his decisions in my recollection, and I have never known this of any other judge.

Model for Later Judges.

"His charge to the jury in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Drum, when sitting in the court of oyer and terminer for Westmoreland county on November 9, 1868, is a classic model, and has been followed by all judges. He was a judge who would listen with great earnestness, and he was the readiest writer on the supreme bench. He could look into a case and write an opinion in an incredibly short time.

"It was for this reason, as well as for his acknowledged ability as a jurist, that he was selected to decide the question of the right of the president of the United States to order a draft for soldiers during the war. He heard the case and filed his opinion within three days, sustaining the draft. He also wrote the opinion of the supreme court.

Opposed by Politicians.

"Justice Agnew served out his term of 15 years, retired January 6, 1879, with a pure, unstained record, and it was generally regretted that he was not renominated, but he was opposed by the politicians, who advanced the idea that he was too old. From that time he lived in comparative retirement, but occasionally delivered, upon the invitation of various associations, addresses upon special subjects, which were finely prepared and were greatly praised. He devoted his life to intellectual and scientific work. He was a great reader, was industrious and loved work, which he claimed was his amusement. He was a great man, and at the close of his official career, when he retired from the bench he had so long honored, he carried with him the high respect and esteem of a profession and a public who had reposed confidence in his decisions and who will ever retain a grateful recollection of his services."

A Remarkable Testimonial.

At a large meeting of the bar of Allegheny county, held at the office of Sol Schoyer, Jr., on November 4, 1878, it was decided with entire unanimity that the distinguished services of the Hon. Daniel Agnew, chief justice of the state, entitled him to some marked testimonial of the regard in which he had always been held by the bar, and of the regret of its members upon his retirement from the high office which he had so long and honorably filled. Committees were appointed and on behalf of the bar Hon. Thomas M. Marshall, John H. Hampton, S. Schoyer, Jr., W. D. Moore and George W. Guthrie tendered the chief justice a banquet in the following letter:

"Your impending retirement from the supreme bench of Pennsylvania presents a proper opportunity for some public expression which will fitly convey the high esteem in which your unsullied name and distinguished services are held by those with whom you have been so long personally and officially associated.

Tribute of the Bar.

"During many years of arduous duty, faithfully discharged, we have constantly admired the learning with which you have discussed the important causes submitted to your judgment, the fearlessness and integrity with which you have sought, through the ministry of the law to promote the ends of justice, and the patience, dignity and courtesy which have marked the discharge of the high and responsible duties of your office. We sincerely hope that, in retiring from the exalted station which you have so long adorned, it may be to many more years of usefulness and happiness.

"We know that you will carry with you to that retirement the earnest gratitude of those whom you have so long and so ably served, and with whose most important interests your name will be imperishably and honorably associated. Entertaining these sentiments, we beg to tender you a complimentary banquet, at such time as may suit your convenience and you may designate."

Judge Agnew's Modest Reply.

In reply accepting the invitation, the chief justice, with his characteristic modesty, wrote: "I would much prefer to retire more privately, yet I cannot meet so many friendship and regard with a denial."

The evening of November 26, 1878, was designated as the time and the Monongahela house as the place of the banquet, and on that evening a distinguished company, numbering 150 members of the bar from all parts of Western Pennsylvania, assembled around the table to do honor to the distinguished guest. Hon. Thomas M. Marshall acted as chairman, and among the other speakers were Justice George Sharswood, Lieut. Gov. J. W. Latta, Hon. W. W. Ketcham, United States district judge; Hon. J. M. Kirkpatrick, R. M. Gibson, Maj. A. M. Brown, John H. Hampton, W. D. Moore, R. B. Carnahan, Hon. Thomas Mellon and Hon. John Dalzell.

Hon. Thomas M. Marshall, in proposing the health of Chief Justice Agnew, referred to his distinguished services, and in speaking of his early work, said:

Judge Agnew Was Law Enough.

The curious student will find but small report in the books of his decisions on the common pleas bench, but it was always said in Butler county: Judge Agnew is law enough for us." It was not an infrequent remark of the

The labors of Chief Justice Agnew will be found reported in more than 60 volumes of our state reports; commencing with 10th Wright, they will extend to 7th Norris. These opinions will embrace learned and exhaustive examinations and discussions of all the various and diversified transactions of business and of life. * * * The opinions on criminal law, I hazard nothing in the utterance, have served to elucidate and give form to criminal jurisprudence of the state. * * * To illustrate the ripe and rich learning in criminal law, I might refer to the Commonwealth vs. Drum, reported in the 58th volume of the state reports. The elaborate care and definite presentation of the law therein set forth have furnished guide marks for charges in homicide trials throughout the commonwealth. I know I have met and found that opinion confront me in many a struggle before a jury of the country, when the judge of the oyer and terminer had the last word to the 12 good judges of the law and the fact.

Toast of the Evening.

Mr. Marshall's toast was as follows:

I propose the sentiment of the evening—our guest, Daniel Agnew, chief justice of Pennsylvania. A judge profound and learned in the law; just and upright in its administration—fearing not the face of man—he has discharged the grave and important duties of his high office with rare and conscientious industry and fidelity. An earnest and steadfast friend and defender of the rights of the people, he retires with hands "clean and uncorrupt" in act and intention. May his future of life be as serene and happy as the past has been useful, pure and honorable.

The chief justice made a feeling response, closing with the following:

In conclusion, I thank you, gentlemen of the bar, for this spontaneous, generous and pleasant display of your kindness. It shall have a cherished and sacred spot in the deepest recesses of a grateful heart; and may you, one and all, long live, after my sun shall have set, in the noonday splendor of your talents and usefulness, and above all, of your love of right and justice, remembering, that of all the virtues, courage is the greatest, for it crowns and saves the rest.

MILLIONAIRE WAS BAPTISED IN JORDAN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., March 9.—Cornelius Van Ness, an octogenarian millionaire, has been baptized in the River Jordan, near the spot where Jesus Christ received his baptism at the hands of St. John, according to advices received here from the orient. Van Ness sailed on the Celtic last month for this purpose.

Mr. Van Ness, who for years owned and occupied a palatial residence on the Hudson, and has extensive real estate interests in New York, two years ago created a sensation by marrying Miss Alice Wood, an attractive young woman of Port Jervis, upon whom he bestowed his wealth with great liberality. This led to proceedings in the supreme court by nieces of his former wife to restrain Van Ness from the further distribution of his estate, the plaintiffs claiming that the aged man was being unduly influenced by his young wife, and that there was danger that property which the previous Mrs. Van Ness had intended should go to the nieces would be distributed elsewhere.

Deeming it advisable to compromise with his antagonists rather than endure a protracted legal fight, Van Ness finally settled the case by transferring to the plaintiffs property aggregating more than $100,000.

Among the 1,200 passengers who sailed on the Celtic were Mr. and Mrs. Van Ness. It now transpires that for years Mr. Van Ness had cherished a desire to be baptized in the Jordan, and that the journey was undertaken for no other purpose. According to reports received from the Celtic, Van Ness was baptized by the Rev. Dr. William E. Hall, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Newburg, one of the passengers, and an intimate friend of the aged millionaire.

During the voyage to the orient some of the enterprising passengers issued a paper called the Celtic Herald, which contained interesting facts regarding the trip. Fifty different clubs were formed during the cruise.

BOSTON MAY BE TIED UP BY A STRIKE TODAY

Ten Thousand Handlers of Freight Have Decided to Stop Work This Morning.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, MASS., March 9.—Ten thousand men, freight handlers, freight clerks, team drivers, union men of various occupations having to do with the handling of freight for the New York, New Haven & Hartford and Boston & Albany railroads, will go on a strike tomorrow morning.

This was decided upon by the different unions late tonight, and other unions, such as the longshoremen, although deferring action tonight, will probably make the strike general, so that there will be a complete tie-up of Boston's business.

The direct cause of the strike is the discharge of seven freight handlers by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, the men having refused to handle goods delivered on teams of the R. S. Brine Transportation Company, which is fighting the Team Drivers' union. All employing teamsters in Boston, with the exception of the Brine Company, have acceded to the demands of the men, but despite the efforts of the chamber of commerce, the state board of arbitration and Senator Hanna's Civic Federation, the differences between the Brine Company and the teamsters have not been adjusted.

The police have established headquarters at the Consolidated freight sheds in South Boston, and large details have been ordered to report in the morning.

BILLY" RICE BURIED TODAY.

The Old-Time Minstrel Will Be Given a Modest Funeral by the Actors' Fund.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., March 9.—(Special.)—After lying several days in a cheap pine coffin in an undertaker's shop, the body of Billy Rice, the old-time minstrel, will be buried tomorrow at the expense of the Actors' Fund. Since Rice died here, on March 1, in poverty, away from friends, it seemed that no one would accept the responsibility of putting the body under the ground. The local lodge of Elks had arranged for a funeral when a telegram from Mrs. Rice, who said she was going to have the remains taken to New York, stopped the proceedings.

Mrs. Rice evidently failed to raise sufficient funds to carry out her purpose and those who had offered their services withdrew and Rice's body remained unclaimed, while the undertaker was endeavoring to find some one who would pay the costs. Today he was notified that the Actors' Fund would appropriate $50 for a modest funeral. There are no friends of the old end man here to pay a last tribute.

DUEL RUMOR DENIED.

Officials Say That Lieut. Powell Clayton, Jr., Had No Trouble in Mexico.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.—(Special.)—Because he was needed for service with his regiment and not on account of ostracism consequent upon refusal to fight a duel is the reason for the recall from Mexico, six months ago, of First Lieut. Powell Clayton, Jr., Fifth cavalry, son of the United States ambassador to Mexico. Officials of the war department say they never heard that Lieut. Clayton, while serving as military attache of the American embassy in the City of Mexico, became involved in a dispute which brought upon him a challenge to fight a duel. No report adverse to Lieut. Clayton was received at the war department. His tour of duty in Mexico expired and, as his regiment was in need of officers, he was directed to rejoin it. Several officers have applied for assignment as his successor, but their applications have not been granted.

THE REPUBLICANS RESPONSIBLE FOR CUBAN WELFARE

Congressman John Dalzell Tells Why Island's Interests Should Be Nurtured.

FOR TARIFF REDUCTION

Pittsburgh's Representative Says That After Careful Investigation He Is Confident That Such a Step Would Not Injure Sugar Interests.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.—In an interview here tonight Congressman John Dalzell of Pittsburgh told in detail his reasons for believing that some tariff concessions should be made to the inhabitants of Cuba. He said:

I don't regard this question as one of protection at all. There is no proposition to revise the tariff in any single particular. It is not a proposition to revise the tariff on sugar. It has relations simply to a reciprocity agreement with Cuba. Our relations with Cuba are absolutely different from those with any other country. In those relations we are bound to look out for not simply the welfare of the Cubans, but our own welfare as well.

Republican Party Responsible.

Anything that should happen to Cuba between now and the next congressional election that would go to disclose our failure not only to give Cuba a stable form of government, but also to preserve such form of government, would be counted against us as a failure on the part of the Republican party and would be charged against the Republican party. If it should happen, by reason of our failure to legislate for the relief of Cuba, and her new government shall be imperilled, we have to bear the burden. If it shall turn out that, by reason of being compelled to sell their sugar at a loss, great distress should result to the island and thousands of men should be deprived of employment, the probabilities are that, if our army is withdrawn in the meantime, it would have to go back again.

Must Give Them a Fair Start.

It must be remembered that not only have we pledged ourselves by the Paris treaty to the maintenance of a stable form of government in Cuba, but, in addition, by the terms of the Platt amendment, we have reserved to ourselves the right, and, of course, there is a corresponding duty, to intervene against the Cubans themselves should they endanger the stability of their government. Our first duty, therefore, as it seems to me, is to put ourselves in such situation that the government shall have plain sailing toward success.

The question appears to me to be a very much broader one than any that relates simply to tariff schedules. Entertaining this view, I still would not advocate any action that would interfere to the detriment of any American industry.

Wouldn't Injure Sugar Interests.

I claim to be an ultra-protectionist. I am satisfied, however, from a very careful investigation of the situation, that a concession of 20 per cent of the tariff upon sugar would not hurt our sugar interests in the remotest degree. I am perfectly satisfied that the claim that this tariff concession would inure to the benefit of the sugar trust cannot be sustained.

It has been demonstrated that tariff reduction in the case of Porto-Rican sugars have gone into the pockets of the Porto Rican planters. The same thing was demonstrated when the Hawaiian sugar was made free by treaty. The duty taken from the Hawaiian sugar went to the sugar planters of Hawaii. This, it seems to me, is capable of very easy demonstration.

Hamburg Sets the Price.

If you will take the export prices of Hawaiian, Cuban and Porto Rican sugars, and will add the freight and other charges from the port of shipment in each individual case to the city of New York, you will find that the New York price of the several sugars is identically the same. In other words, it is in all cases the New York price, which is, after all, the Hamburg price, because Hamburg fixes the price of sugar in the New York market.

Furthermore, if you will take the cost price of the manufacture of beet sugar, as testified to before the ways and means committee, you will find that beet sugar can be laid down in the western markets at Chicago or Kansas City, for instance, at a price which will compete with Cuban sugars and give our people a fair profit.

The Question a Big One.

It must be remembered that beet sugars of the last 10 years have been successfully competing in the western markets with the Hawaiian free sugar. I cannot escape the conclusion that the reduction proposed by the ways and means committee cannot injure our beet sugar producers. In view of this fact, the claim that the ways and means proposition violates, in the remotest degree, the principle of protection seems to me untenable.

The question is a very big question, calling for the exercise of the wisest statesmanship, with a view of ulterior results. It seems to me that unless aid is given to Cuba in her present necessities the result must be that the Cuban annexation must soon follow.

Opposed to Annexation.

I do not believe that annexation at this time would prove to be anything but disastrous to the United States. I have no doubt that some time in the future annexation is inevitable, but, if we can postpone that event for a period of years, Cuba in the meantime will undoubtedly be Americanized, and when that annexation comes, as it must come, we will take into the union not a population of illiterate Cubans, but a population practically American and not undesirable.

I am much more exercised about the welfare of our own people and the interests of the Republican party than I am about the immediate welfare of Cuba. Whether wisely or unwisely we undertook the task of making a Cuban republic, if we fail to do anything necessary to the accomplishment of that end, the failure will be that of the Republican party and the people of this country will undoubtedly hold us to strict account at the polls.

A BURLESQUE TRUST.

Combine Expects to Save Half-Million Dollars Each Season.

CLEVELAND, O., March 9.—As an outcome of last week's meeting in this city a burlesque trust was formed by the representatives of the Empire Circuit Association of Burlesque Theaters and the Variety Managers' Association of America.

The scheme is the result of several years of deliberation between the theater managers and the managers of burlesque companies, and means, it is said, that at least half a million dollars will be saved annually by the interests involved.

In the plan of the trust 41 burlesque theaters in the principal cities have booked time for 41 burlesque companies for five years, and the companies are virtually controlled by the trust. Each of the companies will start the season on the same date, and will follow each other about the circuit, thereby eliminating the expensive feature, that of making long jumps and doubling back and forth between the east and the west.

Jules Hurtig, of the firm of Hurtig & Seamon, of New York city, said in an interview that there is a strong sentiment among the managers and the companies in favor of abolishing lithographs as an advertising feature, thus getting rid of the pass system.

arrival at the club, but there was no special demonstration. An elaborate luncheon was served, and there was an interesting discussion of the trip through the country just concluded.

Notable Display of Plate.

Prince Henry dined tonight with Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, at the house of Mrs. Ogden Goelet, No. 608 Fifth avenue, which they leased for the winter from Mrs. Vanderbilt's sister. This was more formal than the luncheon of the day previous, given by Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills, but only as a dinner is always attended by greater formality than the earlier meal. There were 56 persons at dinner, and as the dining room was not sufficiently large to seat all a second table was placed in the conservatory, just off the dining room, separated only by long windows. There was no difference in the elegance of the two tables, the appointments of both being in most approved taste. There was, of course, a notable display of gold and silver plate.

Flowers Not Obtrusive.

The floral decorations of the house were in most refined taste, not at all obtrusive, and such as might be expected at one of the regular parties of the household during the season. In the drawing room, where the dinner guests assembled in advance of the prince's arrival, roses of many varieties, orchids, acacias, lilies of the valley and other flowers were placed about in vases. This room is of Louis XV. design in white and gold, with superb rugs and skins placed about the floor. The guests arrived shortly before 7 o'clock and were in readiness to greet the distinguished guest, who was met by the host and hostess at the entrance to the house and escorted to the drawing room.

Table Decorations Red.

At 7:10 o'clock Mrs. Vanderbilt and the prince led the way to the dining room, where they were joined by the foreigners and American officials who have been of the prince's party during his travels. There were 36 people seated in this room. The main color of this table was red, the flower used being the camelia. These flowers were placed in tankards of gold and silver and garlands of the same were gracefully arranged over the cloth. The remainder of the guests were seated in the conservatory, where the floral scheme was of yellow and white. The electric lights were covered with yelow silk and vases and silver cups filled with jonquils and farleyensis fern were placed about in symmetrical designs on the table.

Names of the Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt's other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills, Mr. and Lloyd Bryce, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cass Ledyard, Mr. and Mrs., Edmund L. Bayliles, Mr. and Mrs. Moreton Frewen, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Mackey, Mr. and Mrs. Orme Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Post, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Drexel, the Countess Grey, Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Mrs. A. Cass Canfield, Mrs. Francis K. Pendleton, Mrs. Richard Gambrill, Mrs. Lewis Chantler, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. T. J. Oakley Rhinelander, Miss Beatrice Mills, Miss Alice Babcock, Miss Eleanor Jay, Miss Evelyn Burden, Miss Anna Sands, Miss Helen Barney, Miss Bishop, tha German ambassador, Dr. von Holleben; Vice Admiral von Tirpitz, Gen. von Plessen, Admiral von Eisendecher, Freiherr von Seckendorff, Capt. von Muller, Capt. von Grumme, Count Quadt, Capt. von Rebeur Paschwitz, Capt. Schmidt von Schwind, Freiherr von Kapherr, Rear Admiral Evans, Maj. Gen. Corbin, Assistant Secretary of State David J. Hill, John Jacob Astor, Egerton Winthrop, Sr., Stuyvesant Fish, August Belmont, Robert Gerry and Frank L. Polk.

Women Wore Many Jewels.

As can well be imagined there was a collection of handsome women who did full justice to the occasion as regarded costumes and jewels. Nearly all the married women wore superb ornaments of jewels, and stomachers as well. As there were so many men in the prince's suite it was necessary for some of the women to accept the dinner without their husbands. The service of the dinner was almost rapid, and afterward there was a brief opportunity for conversation previous to the departure of Prince Henry

GERMANS ARE SATISFIED.

Berlin Newspapers Declare Prince Henry's American Trip a Complete Success.

BERLIN, March 9.—Some of the daily papers have begun summing up Prince Henry's trip to the United States. Their tone is one of complete satisfaction. They declare the prince's trip was never intended to have any specific political aims, but merely purposed to bring about an improvement in the popular feeling in both countries.

The Boersen Zeitung admits that its most sanguine expectations have been exceeded by the occurrences of the prince's trip and says the heartfelt cordiality displayed by the Americans was greater than could have been expected.

The National Zeitung says that Prince Henry and the Americans have learned to understand and appreciate each other, and that the result attained is out of the common. It is a not-to-be-forgotten incident, says this paper, in the busy rush of modern life.

MYSTERY UNSOLVED.

The Husband of Murdered Woman Passes Restless Sunday in His Prison Cell.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., March 9.—The mystery surrounding the sending through the mail of a poisoned headache powder to Mrs. Ada Klump of Lowell, causing her death a week ago, is seemingly no nearer a solution than on the day of the arrest of William Klump, the husband, last Thursday.

The theory that some woman in the affections of Klump concocted the plot and carried it out still holds with the officers who are conducting the investigation.

Klump appeared worried and restless in jail today and was not disposed to talk about the case. His brother visited him during the day and advised him to tell the truth, which William said he had done and would do.

Sheriff Chapman stated tonight that he was working on a new clue, but could not tell the nature of it yet.

FOUND GAS, NOT BEER.

Two Alleghenians Have an Unpleasant Experience in a Cellar.

James Bayne and John McGovern lighted a candle and went down the cellar at No. 11 Robinson street, Allegheny, about midnight. They saw a flash, heard a report and found themselves lying on the ground. The candle was out, but their heads were blazing. Other people in the house ran to their aid, put out their flaming hair and took them upstairs. A gaspipe in the cellar was leaking.

The men found that they were not seriously burned and walked to the Allegheny General hospital, where their burns were attended to.

FIFTH VICTIM OF MURDERERS IN BEAUMONT

The Still Unidentified Body Was Found Floating in the River.

EIGHTEEN ARRESTS MADE

All Five Crimes, Which Have Occurred Since the Beginning of the Year, Had Similar Circumstances—Only Two Victims Have Been Identified.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BEAUMONT, TEX., March 9.—The body of the fifth murdered victim of a gang of robbers and murderers, operating along the river front in the neighborhood of Beaumont, was found floating in the river today, and two hours later eighteen suspects whose domicile is that section of flat country across the river known as "The Flats," were arrested and placed in jail.

The body found today was viewed by Justice Brown, acting coroner, who, while he held no formal inquest, declared his conviction that the man had been murdered. There was nothing about the body to reveal the man's identity, not one article of value was in the pockets. No marks of identification were found on the corpse.

The entire lower part of the man's face had been crushed as though by a heavy iron weapon or a wooden mallet. The jaw bone was smashed into splinters and the teeth were all knocked out. The five bodies have been found since the first of the year. Two of them were so badly mutilated that their identification was impossible. A third one was identified by means of an emerald ring, as that of Patrick Fitzpatrick, who had been missing for three weeks. The fourth body found last Thursday was that of Benjamin Pearson, who had a fine suit of clothes and between $50 and $100 cash in his pockets, besides a fine gold watch when last seen by his friends. When found his body was clothed only in an undershirt and drawers. In each case the victim was killed by blows on the head, evidently made by sandbags or bludgeons.

Three of the bodies were found between the Southern Pacific and the Kansas City Southern bridges. That of Pearson was found two miles down the river and that of the man found today was discovered about a quarter of a mile above the Southern Pacific bridge.

SEEKING ASSISTANCE.

Postoffice Clerks Appeal to the President and the Postmaster General.

CHICAGO, March 9.—Chicago postoffice clerks' union of the American Federation of Labor, at a meeting today, drafted an appeal to President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Payne asking their assistance in behalf of the clerks' efforts to secure by legislation an eight-hour day and an increase in pay on a graded scale, ranging from $600 to $1,200.

This action was taken because the clerks desired to comply with the recent order of President Roosevelt prohibiting government employes from petitioning or in any way attempting to influence legislation by congress. The resolutions will be forwarded to Washington at once.

ELKIN SUFFERS FROM THE TAINT OF ASSOCIATES

Stoneism Has Destroyed the Attorney General's Hopes in Erie County.

REGARD QUAY'S WISHES

Republicans Are Loyal to the Senator and a Strong Effort Will Be Made to Gratify His Desire in Gubernatorial Nomination.

By WALTER J. CHRISTY,
Staff Correspondent.

ERIE, PA., March 9.—The nomination of John P. Elkin for governor will not be satisfactory to the Republicans of Erie. He is considered to be entirely too close to Gov. W. A. Stone. The selection of Congressman J. C. Sibley, W. R. Andrews, L. A. Watres or any man who has the taint of Stoneism will be accepta-[illegible]. If the state convention goes contrary to the wishes of the party, the result in the county, and more especially this city, will be disastrous.

The Erie Republican organization is in the hands of the stalwarts. They are extremely loyal to M. S. Quay. If he would say that he desired the nomination of some particular candidate, a strenuous effort would be made to deliver the goods. Talks with nearly all of the leaders have developed the fact that they are not for Elkin. Personally they like him, but his associations are not to the taste of Erie Republicans. This makes it apparent that Quay is not intending to line up for the Indiana man.

Elkin May Defy Quay.

Erie county politicians have a habit of making frequent jaunts to Philadelphia and Washington. Some of them have formed the impression that Durham, Elkin and Stone contemplate going contrary to Senator Quay's wishes. The same impression has been gotten in other northwestern counties. It is said that Quay has even hinted this to a friend or two. In the event of such a break, it is the belief that Quay would be surprised at the immense number of friends he has in the state. If he were to announce his preference for a good, clean Republican, the concensus of opinion is that the fight would be over in short order. Everywhere his old-time supporters are waiting the word.

Many of the organization men do not care to talk for publication, but privately they frankly admit that the nomination of Elkin would be inviting probable defeat. They are the same men who have made past stalwart victories in Erie county possible. If Quay says that Elkin is his choice, they will turn in, but they realize that they are going into a fight filled with uncertainties.

Erie Is Debatable Territory.

Erie has three members of the legislature. Erie city is a separate district and debatable territory. A dozen men have said that with Elkin the nominee for governor, hope of success in the fall would be extremely doubtful. In the county at large there would be more chance, but stalwart victory would not come without an awful struggle. What is written here has been told Quay and Penrose.

No better illustration of the Republican unrest can be given than in the fact that no candidates are announcing for the many offices to be filled this fall. Almost every position in the court house is to be voted on. Some men are mentioned, but prospective candidates are not making formal announcement. They all want the governorship settled. With a state ticket inspiring confidence, a nomination in Erie on the Republican ticket is equal to an election, but if the nominee is not to the liking of the Republicans a fierce fight will have to be made in the fall.

Not Shouting for Elkin.

Take such men as S. A. Davenport, Isadore Sabel, Benjamin Brown, Senator Sisson and a dozen of other notable party leaders that might be mentioned and none of them are shouting for Elkin. They are not giving their views for publication, but they have their ears to the ground. They are in the possession of the public sentiment. They know what the party wants. They know what will happen if the state convention does not do what the rank and file desires. They are the men who are looked to for majorities.

There is another class, the backbone of the party, the men in the rank. Straight Republicans who always vote the ticket; men who see that their neighbors do the same thing. They are reaching the parting of the ways with what they term Stone-Elkin-Durham domination. Frank Connell, R. E. Clemens and others of their kind, big men in the party, are objecting to the nomination of Elkin. They say that they speak for many of their friends.

Sibley Popular in Erie.

Mr. Sibley is popular here. Were he to come into the county and seek the delegates, it is the belief that he would get them. W. R. Andrews is also a favorite. People were for a time disposed to look upon his candidacy as a desire upon the part of some of his many friends to pay him a compliment. Before long his candidacy may be treated more seriously. On good information it is learned that he may shortly formally announce that he is in the race to the finish. Some have said that he was out in the interest of Elkin, but those familiar with the feeling existing between the two men doubt this. If Sibley comes into the northwest as an avowed candidate, he will gather in all the delegates. Should he decline to do battle and Mr. Andrews decides to make the run it would be hard work to keep the northwestern tier of counties away from him. His closeness to Quay and the fact that as late as yesterday he was a trifle active would indicate that Quay has not tied to Elkin.

Andrews May Be Chairman.

Perhaps in the end the best for Andrews will be the chairmanship of the state committee. This will be one thing at least that the Erie delegates will insist upon.

Maj. J. B. Brown of Corry wants the delegation to support him for secretary of internal affairs. Some people say that he is on the Elkin slate, but that report is given for whatever it may be worth. Over at Corry it was found that all of the people were enthusiastically for him. To say that they were all tearing their shirts for the major here would be stating an untruth. By this it is not meant that he will not get these delegates. They will be with him to a man unless there are some unlooked for developments in the future. At the same time some of the men who would be expected to do missionary work are not running around with tracts in the major's behalf. The suggestion in some quarters that he wants to get control of this delegation in the interest of Elkin will be looked into and if found to be correct, Brown will be the sufferer.

Simply Working for Brown.

Capt. Austin, the postmaster of Corry, says that Brown's friends are keeping out of the gubernatorial fight. They are simply working for the major, and are hopeful of landing the nomination for him.

James D. Hay, the register and recorder of the county and chairman of the Republican committee, comes the closest to being an outright Elkin man in the town. He is a stanch organization follower and would never falter if the leaders told him to go. It would be a pleasure to him to see this delegation instructed for Elkin and some think that he may try it. Should he attempt this and without the approval of certain state leaders, opposition would be found among the very men who have fought for him and with him since he has been in politics in Erie. He says that there will be three delegates from this city and three from the county, and gives notice that each one will be a stalwart. Mr. Hay openly says that he is a great friend of Elkin, and the numerous pictures of the attorney general hanging about his office indicates that.

Pictures Not an Index.

One cannot always go by the presence of pictures, however, for W. H. Andrews to this day keeps a big likeness of the postscript man hanging above his desk in Pittsburgh, and at the same time has as little use for Stone as has Maj. A. M. Brown.

Mr. Hay thinks that Elkin and W. R. Andrews have more friends in Erie than has Sibley. He admits, however, that the people of his county have no use for Stone, and as a consequence Elkin will not be as strong a man as some others. Nevertheless, if the organization wants Elkin, Mr. Hay will "go 'long." His fondness for W. R. Andrews is even stronger than the liking for Elkin. He would be well satisfied to have the delegates instructed for him. When asked if he did not think that Andrews' candidacy was largely for the purpose of securing the state chairmanship, he said that there might be something in that.

No Opposition to Bates.

He also advanced the information that Elkin would probably not want Andrews for chairman. Chairman Hay says that Congressman Arthur L. Bates will no doubt be renominated without a fight, and this is the general opinion. On the question of electing the members of the legislature in case Elkin is the candidate, Mr. Hay admits that the fight will be more difficult, especially in the city districts, but thinks that it could be won.

James Allison is the clerk of court. He is a Republican of excellent standing in the county and his advice is always sought. He says that he believes in men being outspoken and saying what they think. The present situation in the state he regards as a serious one for the Republican party. "It would be a great mistake to nominate Elkin," said he. "He is not a strong man. Everything that Stone has done will have to be answered by his attorney general.

Resembles Delamater Fight.

"To my mind the party is face to face with an exactly similar situation to the one before it when Delamater was nominated. We should profit by experience. Why the party should risk the governorship, the legislature, a United States senator, a number of congressmen and countless county offices is more than I can realize. I have always considered Quay a great leader and I am hopeful that he will yet lead the way to safety. The Pittsburgh election foreshadowed what will happen in the fall. The retirement of Senator Flinn at this time will not be taken seriously. It looks as though it was done in the interests of Elkin and entirely for effect.

"Sibley is the man we should nominate. He is strong in Erie and I am confident that he would lead the party to success in the fall. I know him well. I wrote to him some time ago urging him to get into the contest.

Would Take the Nomination.

"He is willing to take the nomination if offered, but does not appear to be an active candidate. Col. Watres is also an acceptable man. We do not know him so well here, but I think that if he were the nominee he would make victory easy."

Mr. Clemens, who is the head of the Erie Chemical Works and a stalwart Republican, is extremely outspoken in his refusal to accept the candidacy of Elkin. He has been a contributor and worker for the party for years. He and his father supported Col. Quay whenever the occasion required. "The people of Erie county are opposed to the nomination of Elkin," said he. "We are opposed because we are in opposition to anything that Stone wants. I don't know Elkin personally, but his affiliations satisfy me that he is not the man the party wants. He is in bad company. Were Stone to come to Erie he would be accorded the same sort of a reception that he received at Clearfield.

Would Bolt Elkin.

"If Elkin is nominated there will be a bolt. Good Republicans will not stand for him. If the delegation from this county votes for him they will not be representing the sentiment of the county. The Pittsburgh election should be sufficient notice that Stone and Stoneism has no place in Pennsylvania. Nominate Elkin and let the Democrats name Pattison and Pattison will be elected. I would vote for him, even though I have always been a straight party man."

Frank Connell is at the head of the Snyder Engine Works. He has always been a stalwart Republican and could have anything he desired at the hands of the party. He is not seeking office, but he does want a purification of the party and is about ready to step outside the lines to help bring it about. "I am against Stone and Elkin," said he. "The people are tired of the domination of the Stone machine. I am about ready to vote the Democratic ticket to bring this about.

No Danger to National Ticket.

"I am satisfied that Pennsylvania could safely turn down Elkin without endangering the national ticket two years hence. It is simply a matter of local house cleaning and has no connection with the national election. It would be better for the party to nominate a man in whom the people have confidence. We have plenty of Republicans in Pennsylvania who would make good governors and could be elected without a fight."

William Hardwick is the Republican mayor-elect of Erie, and is also at the head of the Erie engine works, one of the largest manufacturing plants in the city. He said that he could not discuss the situation. When told that his fellow manufacturer, Mr. Connell, had talked freely on the subject, the mayor replied:

"Connell is a level headed man. He is a representative citizen and Republican. His views are not far out of the way."

Strong Friend of Sibley.

Mayor Hardwick is a close personal and political friend of S. A. Davenport.

F. S. Phelps, a close political associate of Mr. Davenport, is one of the strongest Sibley men in the county. He is the editor of the Times, the organization organ. Mr. Phelps is now in the west on business.

D. D. Reed, editor of the Dispatch, is one of the fathers of the Andrews boom. He has just returned from Washington, where he conferred with Mr. Andrews. He says that hundreds of people over the state have been writing to Andrews urging him to get into the contest. Mr. Reed thinks that his candidacy would be perfectly satisfactory to Senators Quay and Penrose. The fact that the delegates of Crawford, Mr. Andrews' home county, are tied to Flood for lieutenant governor probably prevents him from making an active campaign. Mr. Reed promises some developments in the Andrews candidacy in a short time.

Watres Has a Following.

The editor believes that the sentiment of the county is against Elkin. He says that a number of people favor Sibley and Col. Watres also has a strong following.

C. A. Mertens will no doubt be a candidate for re-election to the assembly as the member from the city district. He has not announced his candidacy, but the announcement is expected. In the county Seymore Ware of Springfield township and Cassius Woods of Harber Creek township are considered likely possibilities. Representatives Hoskins and Mulkie have had two terms, but may ask for a third.

John S. Rilling, former Democratic state chairman, is hopeful that Elkin will be the nominee. He says that the candidate of his party is still in doubt. It is gathered by conversation with Democrats that Pattison is the choice of Erie. He was strong here 12 years ago, and they think that he will run well again. Should J. K. P. Hall of Elk decide to make a fight for delegates, he might be able to capture the delegation from this county.

HAMILTON'S

The Angelus Piano Player

Years ago mechanical devices for playing musical instruments met with strong prejudice against their adoption. And there was reason for this. No person with a soul for harmony can tolerate mechanically-rendered music.

Not until the invention of the Angelus did this prejudice pass away. But since the Angelus has become so generally known it is welcomed everywhere.

Musicians are the most enthusiastic admirers of the Angelus. It plays the music they like better than they themselves can play it. Or, more correctly speaking, the Angelus ENABLES them to do this. Strictly speaking, it is the person operating the Angelus who does the actual playing. Every shade of tonal coloring is under the control of the operator. He governs the expression as precisely as if playing the piano in the ordinary way.

Any person can operate the Angelus. Experience is not necessary.

A gentleman next door was suffering very bad with the dyspepsia. Sometimes he would have to come home from work and go to bed for an hour or so to get relief. I recommended Ripans Tabules to him and he found great help. Now he always carries a box in his pocket and when he feels the pains coming he takes one and it relieves him at once.

Recorder's Veto and Franchise Taxes.

Having declared that future franchise grants should be taxed, Recorder Brown is now given an opportunity to prove to the people of Pittsburgh that he is in earnest in his recent declarations to the officers of the Philadelphia Company. The recorder was undoubtedly moved to his expression on the subject by the result of the February election. As he admits the force of the popular demand that was given expression through the ballot box, and concedes its justice, he must see also that it was intended to have immediate application. The members of the present council who were not re-elected may not feel under obligation to heed the popular will, but the recorder, having acknowledged that the people are right, has placed himself under a moral obligation to carry his acknowledgement to its logical conclusion. When, therefore, the ordinance making a fresh grant to the traction interests comes before him for his approval he should withhold approval for the reason that it violates the principle he has enunciated that all fresh grants by the city must be made on a reciprocal basis. There is no time like the present to do good. Unless the recorder begins now the people will have very little confidence in his professions. It is not enough to leave the question of franchise taxation to be dealt with by a committee of citizens if any decision they may hereafter make in favor of such taxation is in advance converted by the recorder's official act into a barren ideality.

Death of a Grand Old Man.

The Hon. Daniel Agnew, former chief justice of Pennsylvania, was for a long term of years a towering figure in the affairs of this commonwealth. Both on and off the bench, he was a man of commanding influence, devoted heart and soul to the public welfare. He was broad-minded and singularly clear in his conceptions, and his absolute integrity won for his legal opinions and private views a respect and deference that his great ability alone would not have commanded. His interest in public affairs, always marked, was founded on a sense of duty to his fellow-citizens, his own personal gain not having place in a mind that thought first and last for the public weal. The pure and stainless life that has faded out from mortal ken in the quiet of his home in Beaver has been an inspiration and a sustaining influence to many a youth. Study of it cannot fail to fill every Pennsylvanian with pride, for Daniel Agnew, though not a Pennsylvanian by birth, was nurtured in the state and breathed and absorbed the best traditions of the commonwealth from childhood, to give them back again with interest compounded. He was to all intents and purposes a product of the commonwealth and one of its noblest. When he retired from the supreme bench the tribunals of justice lost an ornament and a guiding mind, but the people, until the heavy hand of the passing years weighted him too heavily for mortal use, always had in him a ready champion, and he struck more blows in their behalf than they may ever know. The files of The Gazette for decades contain rich evidences of his wise, manful service. And now the rewards of the just are his, and behind him he leaves a fragrant memory. There is no evil of his making to live after him, and the good he did will be not interred with his bones.

Young Clayton's Courage.

Lieut. Clayton, son of our Ambassador to Mexico, refused to fight a duel with a Mexican officer, and thereby displayed greater moral courage than it would have required to accept the challenge. The young man may be blamed for involving himself in a difficulty with men to whom the duel is a common means of settling personal difficulties, in a country where that semi-barbarous custom is still in favor. It might be naturally argued that knowing these facts Mr. Clayton brought on a difficulty out of which he knew there was but one escape. The facts seem to point to a sudden quarrel, angry words passed in the heat of temper, and a subsequent challenge which young Clayton declined. The result of his refusal to fight brought him into disfavor in the City of Mexico and finally led to his detachment from the American embassy in that city.

But young Mr. Clayton has done a timely heroic thing, and has had the moral courage to stand firm in his refusal to submit to an old and barbarous custom in order to prove his bravery. The law of the duello has long ago ceased to be regarded as a courageous means of satisfying wounded honor, but it requires a man of strong moral nerve even in the United States to stand up against it. To do so under such circumstances as those by which young Clayton was surrounded evidences unusual courage and a high sense of the relative value of standards of moral action.

Durham's Confession.

Senator Quay will undoubtedly be suspicious for a long time to come of the Philadelphia brand of some other things and politics after his recent experiences with the Durham party that visited him in Florida with sociability as its excuse and hearts filled with thoughts of the outcome of the state convention. The Philadelphians, according to the confession of Mr. Durham, had planned an artful campaign. This confession does not appear in so many words, but may be read between the lines without the aid of smoked glasses. It is not the fault of the Quakers that their plans went wrong, but they did go wrong, as Mr. Durham freely, though not exultingly, admits. The guileful visitors from the Quaker City, having, we infer, informed themselves that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, put their heads together and consulted as to the senior senator's pet weaknesses. The result of their council of war appeared in the joyful packing of odd corners of their trunks with such home comforts as Philadelphia scrapple and Pennsylvania sausage. It was a mean attempt to take advantage of an unsuspecting commonwealth by catching the senator off his guard. But note the finish and how the best laid plans of Philadelphia politicians, just like those of mice, gang agley. Durham now blames it on McNichol, but as to McNichol's undivided responsibility there will be two opinions. Senator Quay partook of the scrapple, and, as Mr. Durham puts it, "was knocked out." This was something of a setback. But they sat around and waited for the senator to recover, and then they tried the sausage on him. As Mr. Durham once more puts it, "his stomach went wrong again." That was failure. The insurance commissioner of this grand old commonwealth doesn't admit failure, but it shows in the outcome. "After the second experience," he does admit, "the senator refused to let us cater to his wants, and"—just note it—"and he felt much better." This brings us to the return of the Philadelphians to their native heath, where they were interviewed by the staff correspondent of The Gazette, the following being a true and accurate record of an important part of the dialogue:

Correspondent—Is Senator Quay for Elkin?
Mr. Durham—That is a question you must ask Quay. He will speak for himself.

The plain people may see in all this that there continues to be a divinity that shapes our ends, no matter whose axes attempt to rough hew them. McNichol may supply the scrapple and sausage, and Durham may sink or swim, but Quay is doing his own catering and feels first rate.

Unhappy China.

Cablegrams from Hong Kong telling of the progress of the rebellion against the emperor in several of the provinces indicate that the uprising is considerably more serious than was first thought when the Kwang-Surebels started out to avenge their supposed injuries. The town of Kaio-Chou has been captured and the rebel forces have been greatly strengthened by the addition to their ranks of members of the Tejad secret society, an organization something after the order of the Boxer societies. Conditions in China are deplorable in the extreme, and the disorders that have had sporadic origin since the suppression of the Boxer troubles and the tentative return to power of the emperor and his court are growing in intensity and spreading throughout all the populous provinces of central and northern China. Poverty, famine and discontent honeycomb the empire from one end to the other, while commercial and political conditions are chaotic and threatening. What the end will be no prophet may tell. Civilization has gone backward many paces in the great Chinese empire as a result of the disorders of the past two years and the outlook is dark with foreboding both for the Chinese themselves and for those whose commercial and industrial interests are so closely allied with the future of the kingdom.

The Canal Route Again.

Public interest that had for a time been drawn away from the question of the selection of a route for the proposed interoceanic waterway across the isthmus of Panama will doubtless be revived by recent testimony bearing on this important proposition. Thomas B. Atkins, secretary of the Maritime Canal Company that owns important concessions covering the Nicaraguan route testified on Saturday before the senate committee on interoceanic canals and made some interesting declarations touching the claims of his company. Mr. Atkins asserts that his company "holds an exclusive concession from Costa Rica, which is now in full effect, and that Costa Rica has never undertaken to cancel the concessions." He asserts that the company "has expended more than $11,000,000, of which sum $6,000,000 was paid to Nicaragua, $1,500,000 to Costa Rica and $4,000,000 for buildings, machinery and work on the canal." In addition to that the company has a large amount of stock outstanding, making a claim altogether of more than $20,000,000.

This accumulated evidence as to the difficulties in the way of congress in selecting a route for the canal makes all the more incumbent the passage of the Spooner resolution leaving the matter in the president's hands. If congress attempts to choose a specific route for the canal this government is committed to whatever excess cost or increased difficulties may attach to the route so chosen. The president, on the other hand, unswayed by influences of one kind of another, would be left free to select the most available route and allow his determination to rest dependent upon the wiping out of all these encumbrances before the selection should be confirmed. The passage of the Spooner resolution giving the president sole power to select the route would simplify the whole question and doubtless save this government many millions of dollars in the end.

Charges Against Officers.

Two of our marine officers have been charged with cruelty to native Filipinos and will be tried by court-martial on March 17. The allegations against these soldiers are very serious and no imperialist or anti-imperialist has a moral right to prejudge the trial and acquittal or condemnation of those men by direct or implied criticism upon the charges which have been made against them until judgment is pronounced after the full and fair inquiry to which their conduct will be submitted. Maj. Waller, one of the accused, has a gallant, if not, indeed, a brilliant record. It is hard to believe that a man who has shown such heroism in the Philippines and China could be guilty of the atrocities for which he will have to answer. Be that as it may, it is a policy which we must pursue in the east, if we are to gain the confidence and submission of the natives, not to leave a stone unturned in bringing home guilt to the guilty no matter what their past records may have been.

An Unenforced Regulation.

There are printed notices in the street cars declaring that spitting is forbidden, and that the expectorator is liable to be fined, but it is not apparent that spitting in the street cars has decreased, or that the spitters have been obliged to give up good money as a penalty. No rule is self-enforcing, and if this regulation be a good one, some steps should be taken to see that it is respected. Physicians say that the spitting habit is responsible for the spread of much disease. Ladies whose skirts have suffered know that it is a nuisance, and non-spitters among men fail to perceive much to recommend the habit. Either the cards ought to come down and thus let the spitter spit in peace, or else an effort should be made to secure observance of the regulation. It would be sufficient in most cases if car conductors were required to call the attention of offenders to the notice.

The Minnesota senate has declared against the prominence of the American mule in the South African war. Missouri will feel this to be a direct invasion of state's rights.

If King Menelik of Abyssinia be wise he will postpone his visit until we have had time to catch our breath a bit and get over our German dialect habit.

HELD SUNDAY SESSION.

French Chamber of Deputies Adopts Unusual Course and Passes the Budget.

PARIS, March 9.—Anxious to dispose of the budget, the chamber adopted the unusual course of sitting Sunday and held two lengthy sessions today. The chamber passed a law imposing a tax of one franc per 100 kilograms on crude petroleum.

In the course of the discussion of an amendment to the naval estimates M. Almond declared that the United States had adopted plans for the construction of armored cruisers of the same tonnage and speed as those included in the naval program of France.

The budget for 1902 was finally adopted by a vote of 358 to 64 and the chamber of deputies then adjourned.

WINDOW UNVEILED.

American Memorial of Work of Peace Conference Adorns Church at The Hague.

THE HAGUE, March 9.—At the request of the resident clergy of this city Stanford Newel, United States minister to the Netherlands, today unveiled the window in the Anglican church here presented by the mayor of New York as an American memorial of the work accomplished by The Hague peace conference, to which the mayor was a delegate from the United States.

The window is in four sections and represents Christ and allegorical figures of Faith, Hope and Charity.

OFF FOR HAVANA.

Miss Alice Roosevelt Started for the Capital of Cuba Last Night.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.—Miss Alice Roosevelt, the daughter of the president with several friends and accompanied by a maid, left here tonight for a visit to General and Mrs. Leonard Wood, at Havana, going by rail to Florida.

Mrs. Harriet Blaine Beale and Captain Philip were also of the party. Miss Roosevelt expects to return to Washington the latter part of the month.

PING-PONG IS NOW THE RAGE AMONG GOTHAMITES

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, March 9.

Ping-pong has New York by the throat. All other indoor games have been obliged to give way to it, and now an official book of rules for playing it has been placed on the market. It is by a well-known newspaper writer of this city, F. Hammatt Norton, who has studied the game closely, and is familiar with its intricacies. Mr. Norton says in his preface that the rules he gives are those in vogue in England and France, where the game is more extensively played than it is here. Among other things, we learn that it is known in France as "le jeu de ping-pong," in England as "whiff-whaff," in Japan as "ping-pong," and in America as "parlor, or table tennis." One of its advantages is that women can play it as well as men. It has taken hold of New York club men with a vengeance, and in most of the clubs of this city the billiard table is used oftener for ping-pong than for billiards or pool. The Badminton, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Knickerbocker, Athletic, Crescent of Brooklyn and many other clubs count ping-pong as the most important amusement. There have been tournaments arranged at the Harvard and Crescent clubs, and it is expected that records will be made which will give ping-pong players elsewhere all they can do to break them. The game is a graceful one, and can be played on any ordinary dining table, although a billiard table on account of its firmness is better. For this latter reason, the stability of the billiard table, many ping-pong struggles take place in clubs. The edge or border of the billiard table is a disadvantage, according to Mr. Norton, who says that it has been found to seriously interfere with the game. Ping-pong demands a plain, flat surface table, five by nine feet in size, and if possible painted a dark shade of green, furnishing a color against which the white celluloid ball is brought out in contrast. The two tournaments referred to, at the Badminton and Crescent clubs, have awakened an intense interest in ping-pong, and it has become a "craze" in New York beyond all question.

Pittsburgher in Opera.

Joseph C. Breil, formerly of Pittsburgh, has gone to Syracuse, N. Y., as principal tenor of the Boston Ideal Opera Company, which will produce light opera the rest of this season. Besides singing the tender roles that naturally fall to the lot of the principal lyric tenor, Mr. Breil will be stage manager and press agent of Isham's theater, where the company is to appear.

Dozed by a Property Brook.

That was a funny happening in "As You Like It" on Friday night, although it did not amuse Henrietta Crosman. An actor named James Fallon, who had a rural part in the "Forest of Arden," with nothing to do but think, fell asleep on a comfortable pile of "grass-mats" while Miss Crosman, as Ganymede, delivered herself of the immortal philosophy belonging to her part. In due course Miss Crosman made her exit, and was surprised to note that the pastoral Fallon was snoring peacefully on the edge of a property brook. Ever a practical young woman, in spite of her artistic soul, she gave Fallon a prod with her spear, and he woke up in a hurry. Then the curtain came down, and there was a period of explanation behind the scenes of the Theater Republic, with Mr. Fallon doing the explaining and Maurice Campbell and Miss Crosman listening incredulously. Fallon held the center of the stage for once in his life, but it is safe to say that he will stay awake in future while on the stage with Miss Crosman.

Morgan's Work for Art.

We are not to lose the famous Garland collection of oriental porcelains after all. J. Pierpont Morgan has come forward with an enormous sum of money, the exact amount not given, and has purchased the entire collection, with the purpose of allowing it to remain in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. As was stated in this letter a few days ago the collection was purchased by the art firm of Duveen Bros. of New York and London. It was thought that the porcelains would be taken to Europe and sold by auction either in a lump or piecemeal. There was much regret in this city, the collection being the finest in the world. Mr. Morgan, whose reputation as a connoisseur of art is as great as his fame as a financier, has always been deeply interested in the Garland porcelains, and determined to keep them here. The report that he had purchased them outright was confirmed by him yesterday. He is one of the trustees of the Metropolitan museum, and he soon made up his mind that this collection must not leave America. It is only to be hoped that New York will continue to try to live up to its blue china.

Ada Will Play Again.

The managers of Ada Rehan deny emphatically that she has retired from the stage permanently. She has gone to Europe for a rest, but will return to America next season, and be seen in a new play, if one to suit her can be found on either side of the ocean. Her last appearance in New York was in that ghastly affair, "Sweet Nell of Old Drury." Even her consummate art could not save it, and that may have disheartened her.

Prince's Visit Near the End.

Prince Henry is winding up his visit to America with a close view of the luxurious American home. His breakfast at the Ogden Mills residence yesterday was a splendid affair and close on the heels of that entertainment came the dinner at the home of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt today. The prince looks tired, but his imperturbable good nature is as much in evidence as ever, and doubtless when he sails away from what is now known as "Prince Henry's pier" at the foot of West Thirty-fourth street, on the Deutschland, he will go with the best of feeling for the country in which he has had such an exciting whirl around the circle.

Kaiser's Yacht Nearly Done.

The kaiser's new yacht is rapidly getting into shape for its trip across the Atlantic. The foremast was stepped yesterday, and, on Tuesday, it is intended to step the mainmast and put the bowsprit in place. The foremast, already fitted in, towers 80 feet above the deck, and goes 10 feet below. It is 22 inches in diameter, and is of carefully-selected Oregon pine.

Sunday Was Not Dry.

While Police Commissioner Partridge gave the police no special orders about enforcing the excise law today, it was understood that a close watch must be kept on all liquor places, particularly the Raines hotels. So far as could be observed, casually, whisky and beer were sold today as freely as usual. Now that a city magistrate has decided again that a sandwich is a "meal" in the meaning of the law, there has been no hesitation in selling whisky even before the sandwich is served. The mere fact that the customer intimates his intention of buying a sandwich entitles him to a malt or spirituous drink, even on Sunday. So there have been a great many drinks sold today, and a less number of sandwiches. The police have made a few arrests, as they do every Sunday, where some flagrant disregard of the law renders such action justifiable. But there has not been any "raiding," and it has not been necessary for anyone to go thirsty, provided he had the money to pay for his drink.

From Rum Point to Roosevelt.

Over at Greenwich Point, Long Island, the inhabitants have had to go for their mail to an inn at the intersection of four rutted roads, which was known as the "Rum Point" postoffice. The Greenwichers do not like it. The suggestion that their letters may be tainted with whisky is not pleasant to them, and they have obtained permission of the postal department at Washington to call their postoffice "Roosevelt."

Etruria Is Safe.

Ever since the report of the disabling of the Etruria reached this city, the Cunard office in Broadway has been besieged by friends of the passengers and others personally interested in the vessel. It is in vain that the attaches of the office assured everyone that the ship was in no danger. The fact that she had not been heard of for a day or two since it it was announced that she was in tow of the William Cliff had more weight with anxious relatives than any official statement from the office. As a matter of fact the ship is regarded as entirely safe, although it is doubtful when she will be able to reach the nearest port with only the small William Cliff to assist her. There was a continuous crowd in the Cunard office yesterday, and it did not melt away until closing time late in the afternoon.

Police Were Zealous.

A new law and order regulation stopped the music in a Jersey City Sunday school today. The school is connected with the German Evangelical Lutheran church, and it meets in a hall which happens to be over a liquor saloon. The law says that there must be no instrumental music or singing in any building in which there is a saloon. The object was to close an obnoxious dance hall in Jersey City. It was not intended to apply to Sunday schools or families, but the head of the police department said he must enforce the law according to its letter, regardless of its spirit. Before next Sunday the Sunday school authorities will apply to the exhibition committee of the board of aldermen for a permit to sing and play, and, of course, will obtain it. But the Sunday school was a decidedly repressed institution this afternoon.

May Irwin Still Busy.

It is whispered on the Rialto that May Irwin has changed her mind about retiring from the stage at the end of this season. The old story of such immense patronage that she cannot bring herself to give up the stage just now, is heard. May is understood to be reading new plays from which to select one for next season, and there is every probability that she will continue to hurl these dry jokes and catchy coon songs over the footlights for many a season to come.

Benefit for Mrs. Haverly.

One of the biggest benefit performances ever held in a New York theater is anticipated at Hammerstein's Victoria tomorrow afternoon. It will be an entertainment, the proceeds to go to the widow and daughter of "Jack" Haverly, and it will enlist the services of nearly every actor and actress of note in the city. Primrose and Dockstader will be the nominal hosts of the occasion, but their company will not monopolize the program, by any means. "Jack Haverly" was as well-known in Pittsburgh as anywhere, and I am told that a number of tickets have been sold to Pittsburgh for tomorrow's performance, some of whom will not be able to get to New York to attend, but who have bought the tickets to show their tender regard for the memory of the man, who, in his day, was known as the "Napoleon" of the amusement business, at a time when Charles Frohman was very small potatoes in the theatrical garden.

"Aunt Ann" Dying.

"Aunt Ann," a hundred years old, and the oldest charwoman of Wall street, is dying. She slipped on an icy sidewalk last Monday, as she was going about her work in the "street," and doctors say she will not recover. She has not a relative in the world, but her friends among the "boys," as she calls many of the mature brokers and bankers downtown, can be counted by the hundreds. "Aunt Ann" has been one of the institutions of Wall street for so many years that her disappearance will make a gap which will be felt by every old-timer, at least.

Calve Ends the Season.

The Metropolitan Opera house was well filled last night in spite of the fact that rain came down in torrents at the time theatergoers should have been on their way to the playhouses. But it was the final night of the grand opera season in New York, and who cared for rain under such circumstances? The opera was "Carmen," with Calve in the title-role, and that would have been enough to attract a house full of people, even if it had not been the last night. Calve was in good voice and she sang Bizet's florid music with all her old fire and precision. There was a concert at the Metropolitan tonight, with a list of soloists including the names of Scheff, Traubmann, Schumann-Heink and Gilibert. Nahan Franke conducted, and the full opera orchestra was under his baton.

No New Plays Yet.

There is not a single new theatrical production announced for this city tomorrow, or at any time in the week. The managers seem to be resting until they can pull themselves together for Easter. At that joyous season it is promised that there will be several plays on Broadway—plays that have been held back because those running are doing all that could be expected of them, and the box offices are laughing gladly, so to speak.

VISITORS TO PARKS WERE VERY SCARCE.

The Organ Recital by Edwin H. Lemare Was the Greatest Feature of the Day.

Visitors to the parks yesterday were scarce, owing to the condition of the day. The parks in such weather as we have been having for some time past are not very inviting places to visit. Snow, mud and slush covers the walks and roadways, making walking very disagreeable. A little warm sunshine and a week of balmy spring air will bring out the people and give the parks a tinge of life and color.

The music hall was filled with a large and fashionable audience yesterday afternoon. The recital given by Edwin H. Lemare, organist and director of music, at the Institute was more than usually varied and not less than usually interesting. It began with a fantasie in F minor, by Mozart, and closed with a Morceau de Concert, composed by Alexandre Guilmant, organist at the Church of La Trinite, Paris.

Mr. Lemare says the fantasia in F minor has a very interesting history. Mozart was at one time staying at the house of an Austrian nobleman and among many interesting curiosities he found there was a large clock with a mechanical organ attached. This clock played a tune every hour and Mozart became so wearied of it that he said he would write his friend a tune if he would have a new barrel made. Needless to say his offer was eagerly accepted and the result is this beautiful composition.

There were the usual number of visitors to the conservatory. The Easter bloom is coming along nicely, but sunshine is badly wanted. Superintendent William Falconer, who is in Mexico, is expected to return some day during the present week. It is not known whether he will bring any new plants with him on his return, but it is expected that he will have some rare cacti. There are still hundreds of sparrows in the conservatory and it will be some time before they are all trapped.

There were not many visitors at the zoo yesterday. Gusky, the only elephant now in the zoo, appeared contented as she munched her hay. She no doubt misses her friend Jumbo, who died during the week, but Gusky shows no signs of her loss yesterday.

PERSONALS.

H. F. Hall, who for the past year had represented the Pressed Steel Car Company in Cape Town, South Africa, is a guest at the Hotel Henry. Mr. Hall went to South Africa to set up a number of steel cars for the Rand mines in the Transvaal, and near Johannesburg. The South African Company bought 101 steel cars made in Pittsburgh, which were set up for them at their mines. The company is greatly pleased with the cars and will shortly increase its orders. "We knew less about the war in Cape Town," said Mr. Hall, "than the people in England and America. The censorship is so strict in South Africa that outside of the field of operation little war news is allowed to be made public. The block house system, which has been established by Lord Kitchner, appears to be an excellent thing, but it takes a great force of soldiers to guard them. On the main line of the railroad from Cape Town to Johannesburg, a distance of over 1,000 miles, block houses are established on an average of one to the mile and from six to 20 men are garrisoned in them. I think that within the next six months the end of the war will be in sight. It will take a year after the war closes for the country to return to its normal condition. For almost its entire length dead cattle and sheep lie thick along the railroad. What cattle and sheep I saw alive were in a starving condition. The mines near Johannesburg are mining about 30 per cent of their stamps. The city is slowly recovering from the effect of the war, but many of the business houses are still closed up. It is very difficult for a stranger to get a permit to go to Victoria or Johannesburg. If his intentions are to stay in either one of these cities he must agree to join a military organization attached as a guard to the town. I noticed that in the mining districts of South Africa the mining engineers and almost all of the mine managers are Americans."

John M. Wilkerspoon, a consulting engineer of Chicago, passed through on the Pennsylvania limited last night. "I am returning to Chicago from New York," he marked, "where I had been superintending the construction of a modern fireproof grain elevator which is being erected at Pier No. 7, in Weehawken, by the New York Central railroad. When completed the elevator will cost $1,200,000 and will have a capacity of 2,000,000 bushels of grain. It will take over 9,000 tons of steel for the building."

James Watson, a merchant of Denver, Col., is at the Anderson. "The western railroads are now doing much to attract the traveling public," he said. "One of their many methods is the establishment of archaeological museums at the railroad hotels along their lines. The scheme has been started by the Harvey Hotel Company, which operates the hotels along the Santa Fe system. The first museum has been established at Albuquerque, New Mexico."

"Ireland is in a very unsettled condition at present," said Henry O'Neil, who represents a linen firm of Belfast, Ireland, at the Hotel Anderson last night. "Owing to the activity of the United Irish league, agitators are demanding the compulsory sale of land to tenants. There have been many ejections during the winter."

E. M. Gray of the firm of E. M. Gray & Co., foundrymen of Washington, D. C., is at the Hotel Duquesne. "I have come to Pittsburgh," he remarked, "to place a contract for some material with Jones & Laughlins."

THE DEATH ROLL.

Capt. George Baylor.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 9.—(Special.)—Word was received here this afternoon announcing the death of Capt. George Baylor on board ship. Capt. Baylor left some days ago for a trip to Jamaica. He had been in failing health for the past few years and concluded to take a trip south with hopes of improving. The cause of his death is supposed to have been heart failure. Capt. Baylor was born in Jefferson county in 1841 and had resided in Charles Town all his life, with the exception of a few years he practiced law in Kansas City after the war. He was state's attorney for Jefferson county from 1876 to 1881. He was for some time a law partner to the Postmaster General William L. Wilson and had been the attorney for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad in the county for a number of years. Capt. Baylor was captain of Company B, Twelfth Virginia cavalry, and also major in Mosby's rangers. He married Miss Lila Beatty, a daughter of Dr. Beatty of Queen Anne county, Md., who survives him, together with one daughter, Miss Louise Baylor.

STRIKERS CAUGHT THE NON-UNION PAINTERS

Some 50 Men Who Arrived Looking for Work Were Persuaded to Return to Their Homes.

Pickets of the striking painters succeeded yesterday in corralling about 50 non-union painters who had come here from other cities to take their places. The men had been arriving during the last two days of last week, and some of their number explained that they came in answer to advertisements in newspapers of their cities that painters were wanted here. They did not know there was a strike.

All according to the strike leaders, were induced to leave. Frank E. Smith, business agent of the painters, says that the men did not appear to be skilled craftsmen, and thinks that at least some of them came for other purposes less commendable than work. The striking painters are now picketing the stations and all important jobs to watch for more arrivals.

At its regular meeting last night the United Labor league of Western Pennsylvania passed resolutions indorsing the action of the painters. The painters will have another mass meeting this afternoon at headquarters, No. 416 Wood street, and local No. 6 will have a meeting in the evening. The paperhangers have called all members off jobs where non-union painters are employed.

A letter was received from the Hon. John Dalzell, representative in congress, in reply to the league having made it a matter of record that he had so far not expressed his opinion at the league's solicitation on the re-enactment of the Chinese exclusion act.

The congressman says that his past record should speak for him, and quotes from a letter to the Jr. O. U. A. M., in which he declares in favor of the re-enactment of the Geary law.

The labor league admitted delegates from the barbers and the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters. The committee on organization asked that a business agent be appointed for the league, and President William Boate was elected for the office. A. J. Kane of the plumbers was elected a member of the executive committee, vice Ed. Welsh of the plumbers, resigned.

The officers of the league were directed to address members of this district in congress urging support of a better eight-hour law and legislation against sweeping injunctions directed against labor unions.

PITTSBURGH GOLFERS.

Philadelphia Golf Association Has Arranged Matches With Many of This City.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., March 9.—Inter city tournaments will play a more conspicuous part in this year's golfing schedule for Philadelphia than has been the case since the introduction of the sport in this locality.

Not only is the Golf Association of Philadelphia rearranging its annual series of contests with the Metropolitan Golf Association of New York, but the local body has decided to arrange a series of matches with Pittsburgh's representative players.

Matches with Baltimore are to be arranged in the near future and the example of the men in indulging in this satisfactory style of tourney is being eagerly adopted by the women golfers. The date of June 28 has been suggested for the first of the Pittsburgh-Philadelphia matches.

ANOTHER FINE PAPER.

Yesterday's Gazette in Make-Up and Selection of Material Was a Credit to Modern Journalism.

Another triumph of modern journalism was witnessed in the make-up and selection of special news stories, novelettes, articles on topics of the day and a host of other interesting and instructive matter found in yesterday's Sunday Gazette. All the art and skill of a great newspaper plant was brought into action for printing and illustrating such a paper.

The literary phenomenons of the world, expert correspondents in the newspaper field, special writers of every class, were invited to contribute the fruits of their genius. Algernon C. Douherty wrote the latest gossip of Paris and its world; Herbert Paul noted the political war in England and some of the warm speeches evoked by a sharp criticism on English camps in South Africa.

Another London correspondent, Percival Phillips, a former Pittsburgh newspaper man, wrote an interesting story of the Pittsburghers who will be present at King Edward's coronation.

Two illustrated articles in the magazine section told of how the government cares for its lake harbors, and of the Mormons seeking to establish a new colony in Mexico. Another illustrated story told of the discovery of a new cannel coal field in the hills of Kentucky.

A good news story from Canton was that the divine Sarah Bernhart, and Coquelin are to give a star performance in Paris for the McKinley fund. The entertainment is to be given in the Opera Comique, where the stars will be assisted by the greatest artists of the continent.

Other notable features of yesterday's Sunday paper were the Wolfville stories; Col. McClure's "Recollections;" Fergus Hume's novel, "The Turnpike House;" Ashley Towne's "The Mytsery of Grasley" and excellent short stories by Aloysius Coll and other brilliant young writers of the day.

A page for the young readers was filled with anecdotes, travels and bits of gossip that delights boys and girls.

REORGANIZATION OF THE MONETARY SYSTEM COMING

A Bill Containing Many Important Changes Has Been Completed.

TO COME UP AT ONCE

The Measure Creates a Board of Control of Three Members to Take the Place Now Filled by the Comptroller of the Currency.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, 603 Fifteenth St., N. W. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.

The Republican members of the house committee on banking and currency have been working for some weeks upon a general banking bill. It was finished yesterday and the chairman of the committee, Mr. Fowler of New Jersey, was instructed to introduce it in the house as a committee bill. It will be favorably reported to the house at the next committee meeting. The purpose of the bill is to reorganize the existing monetary system.

By national banks assuming to redeem currently $120,000,000 of United States notes.

By permitting national banks to issue, under proper safeguards and during a term of seven years, asset currency proportioned to their capital.

By limiting issues of silver certificates to $5 or less.

By increasing the coinage of subsidiary coin.

By providing for the exchange of gold for silver.

By permitting national banks to have places of business in any part of the United States, colonies and foreign countries.

By requiring national banks to pay interest at the rate of 1 per cent per annum on all deposits of public money.

Comptroller's Office Abolished.

The bill creates a board of control, consisting of three members, who shall have supervision of all national banks and discharge the duties now vested in the comptroller of the currency. Any national bank that shall assume the current redemption in gold of an amount of United States notes equal to 25 per cent of its capital, may, without depositing United States bonds, immediately issue an amount of bank notes equal to 10 per cent of its capital. At the end of one year it may issue an additional 10 per cent and on both issues it shall pay a tax at the rate of one-quarter of one per cent per annum. When it ceases to redeem United States notes it shall also pay a tax on the foregoing issues at the rate of 1¼ per cent per annum.

At the end of two years national banks may issue circulation equal to 10 per cent of their capital and they may issue 10 per cent per annum for a period of five years, until the total issues equal 60 per cent of their capital, the tax on each of the four issues last named to be at the rate of 1¼ per cent per annum.

In the discretion of the board of control an emergency circulation of 20 per cent to be taxed at the rate of 3 per cent per annum and a further emergency circulation of 20 per cent, to be taxed at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, may be permitted.

Special Bank Privileges.

Banks that agree currently to redeem United States notes equal to 20 per cent of their capital shall, at the same time, surrender to the United States an equivalent amount of United States notes equal to 20 per cent of their capital, which shall be at once redeemed from the gold in the general fund of the treasury and shall not be reissued, but shall be canceled and destroyed. The committee explain in this connection that 20 per cent of the present national bank capital is $130,000,000, the exact amount of United States notes for whose redemption the banks would be responsible if every national bank should assume its share of such redemption. One-half of this amount, $65,000,000, would represent the United States notes that the banks would at the same time present to the treasury department for redemption. This would relieve the treasury from the burden of redeeming $165,000,000 of United States notes. The final remaining $151,000,000 of United States notes would be amply covered by the $150,000,000 of gold in the reserve fund of the treasury, inasmuch as several millions of United States notes have been lost or destroyed.

Any national bank that has not assumed current redemption of United States notes may, when $100,000,000 have been provided for, issue circulation as above described, but, upon the first 50 per cent of its issue it shall be taxed 1¼ per cent per annum instead of the tax of one-fourth of one per cent per annum paid by banks assuming United States notes.

Bank Notes First Lien on Assets.

The bank notes not issued on government bonds are to be guaranteed by a fund consisting of United States bonds or gold coin equal to 5 per cent of all notes outstanding and this fund is to be used only for the payment of notes of failed banks. The taxes on circulation and interest on public deposits are also to be added to the guarantee fund and any excess of the fund above 10 per cent of all notes issued may be used to cancel and retire United States notes. The total amount of circulating notes of all kinds shall not at any time exceed the amount of the bank's paid up capital, and they shall be a first lien upon its assets.

The bank notes authorized by this bill shall be redeemed in gold over the counter of the issuing bank, and in order to insure their speedy redemption the country is to be divided into clearing house districts. National banks receiving the notes of banks outside their own district shall not pay them out again unless the bank of issue has an agency in such district for the redemption of its notes, but shall forward them for redemption to the district where they belong.

The provision directing the secretary of the treasury to exchange gold for silver is intended to strengthen existing law by keeping all forms of government money at parity with gold, and any additional burden upon the gold reserve is avoided by limiting issues of silver certificates to $5 and less and of bank notes to $10 and upward, so that no considerable number of certificates could at any time be collected and presented for redemption.

The secretary of the treasury is authorized to deposit all public money in excess of $50,000,000 in national banks, the banks to pay interest thereon at the rate of 1 per cent per annum.

OUTLOOK FOR A DULL WEEK IN THE SENATE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.—The attention of the senate will be divided again this week between the ship subsidy bill and the bill providing for the punishment of persons who assault or kill the president of the United States, the former holding the place of unfinished business, and the latter coming in for consideration when there is no one prepared to speak on the subsidy question.

Among those who have announced their intention to speak on the subsidy bill is Senator Vest, but the condition of his health, which remains far from robust, may prevent his addressing the senate. Senator Mallory also will talk on this subject, but beyond these no set addresses have been announced.

No prepared speeches on the presidential assault bill have been announced, but there is no doubt the lawyers of the senate will continue to find more or less to say about it whenever opportunity shall offer. At odd times the calendar will be taken up. Altogether, the week does not promise to be an exciting one in the senate.

THE WEEK IN THE HOUSE.

It Is Generally Conceded That the Rural Free Delivery Bill Will Be Defeated.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.—The house this week, after disposing of the bill to classify the rural free delivery service and place the carriers under the contract system, will devote its attention to appropriation bills. The postoffice appropriation bill, which will be taken up first, probably will require three days. It will be followed by the river and harbor bill. It is regarded as a foregone conclusion that the rural free delivery bill will be defeated when the vote is taken tomorrow.

Died in Chair—Conrad Schreiner of No. 656 Brownsville avenue was found dead in a chair in his room yesterday afternoon. His wife called him to dinner about 2 o'clock and getting no answer went to his room and found him dead. He was a stone mason, 62 years of age.

Skull Was Fractured—William J. Kilkerry, aged 17 years, whose parents live in Forbes street, died at Mercy hospital at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. He was employed at Jones & Laughlins' Soho furnace, where he was injured at 4 o'clock on Saturday morning. His skull was fractured, producing concussion of the brain.

Contests in Wilkinsburg—Wilkinsburg will elect borough officers tonight and a number of surprises are promised. It is said every office will be contested. It is understood that James Balph, the borough solicitor, will be opposed by Attorneys H. W. McIntosh and A. W. Duff. Chief of Police G. W. Snyder, it is said, will have several rivals.

Bakers' Union Raided—Police Capt. George B. McClelland and a squad yesterday raided the resort at No. 1028 Penn avenue, known as the "Bakers' Union." The alleged proprietor, George Weber, and ten visitors were arrested. A quantity of liquor was found in the place. Capt. McClelland also raided a house kept by Lizzie Hall at No. 1111 Bedford avenue and arrested the proprietress and four visitors.

More Water Expected—The rise in the Monongahela river caused by the melting of the snow at the headwaters of that stream will reach Pittsburgh today. A stage of 16 to 18 feet is expected. Last night the marks at Davis island dam showed 11.3 feet. The weather will be a little warmer than yesterday, and no rain is in sight, the indications being for generally fair weather. The maximum temperature in Pittsburgh yesterday was 40 and the minimum 37 degrees.

Inquiring for Her Son—A letter was received yesterday by Superintendent of Police Henry Muth of Allegheny from Mrs. Isabella Cruikshank of No. 64 Esstermont street, Aberdeen, Scotland, inquiring of her son, William Cruikshank, who is supposed to live in Allegheny. Mrs. Cruikshank states that her son is married and a gardener by occupation; that he once worked in Allegheny as a street car conductor, and that she has not heard from him for three years.

New Minister Installed—The congregation of the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church, Fourth street and Holland avenue, Braddock, last evening installed its new pastor, the Rev. W. E. Bauer of Saltsburg, Indiana county, who a couple of weeks ago accepted the call to the charge, made vacant last summer by the Rev. Ernest A. Trabert, who accepted a charge in the eastern part of the state. The Rev. J. J. Brubeck, of the Evangelical Lutheran church of McKeesport, preached the installation sermon at 7:30 o'clock.

Annual Reunion Tonight—All arrangements have been completed for the annual reunion and banquet of the Presbyterian union tonight, at the Schenley hotel. The Rev. Dr. H. D. Lindsay of the North church, Allegheny, president of the organization, will preside. About 200 invitations have been sent out. Dr. Francis L. Patton will be the only speaker, his subject being, as already stated in The Gazette, "The Place of Conscience in Civic Life." An informal reception will be held in the parlors of the Schenley previous to the banquet.

Paderewski Is Here—The great Paderewski, world-famed pianist, is in Pittsburgh, living in his magnificent private car, Rambler, he having arrived from New York, where, on Saturday last, he gave the fourth recital within two weeks to a house so crowded that scores could not gain admittance. Paderewski's only recital in this city takes place tonight at Carnegie music hall, and the large advance sale promises an overflowing audience. The program is a choice one, including among others works by Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Schumann, Chopin and Paginini.

Austrian Was Robbed—W. P. DeArmit, of the Empire Coal Company of Bellaire, O., telephoned to the Braddock police yesterday that Stephen Stuphonish, one of his employes, had reported that he was robbed of $300 in Braddock Saturday. The Braddock police think Stuphonish lost the money. DeArmit said that Stuphonish left Bellaire on Saturday morning with $200 in his pocket. He went to Braddock and drew $300 from the bank there, bought a ticket to Austria, visited a saloon and when he came out found he had been robbed of $300. Thereupon, instead of reporting his loss to the police, he went back to Bellaire and told his employers about it.

Polish Girls Lost—Two young Polish women spent last night as lodgers at Allegheny Central station. They were Mary Diskoritch, aged 19 years and her sister, Anna, aged 24. They were direct from the old country, and cannot speak a word of English. They were found last night at the West Penn station by Officer William Henry. Each had a piece of paper on which was written in very poor English the name of the bearer, and "No. 10 Stockton avenue, Parkview, Allegheny." There is a boarding house named Park View at that number, but the proprietor says he was not looking for the young women and does not want any domestics. The police will try to find their destination today.

Capt. Davis Very Ill—Capt. Evan Davis of engine company No. 29, in Braddock avenue, is lying there not expected to live, and not able to be taken to his home, at No. 7331 Kelly street. He was injured five years ago at a fire at Park Bros.' steel works, where a roof fell on him, and has never fully recovered. His breaking down now is attributable to the injuries received then. He was captain of No. 7 company at the time, and has since served as captain of No. 23 and later was transferred to No. 29, when that Braddock, of which the Rev. Father John house was opened. He is 52 years of age and has a wife and three children.

Contract to Be Awarded—The contract for the new church of the St. Thomas' Roman Catholic congregation, of Hickey is pastor, will be awarded next Friday evening. The plans have just been completed by Architect Fred J. Osterling, and have been accepted by Father Hickey and the board of trustees of the church. The new edifice will be one of the finest in the state, and will be the culmination of Father Hickey's desires for his people in Braddock, where he has been located 20 years. The anniversary of his appointment there will be celebrated on Wednesday of next week with interesting ceremonies. The new church will cost $80,000, of which sum Mr. Carnegie has promised almost one-half, it is said.

Two Societies Organized—Two total abstinence societies were organized in Sharpsburg yesterday as a result of a visit of the officers of the Diocesan Total Abstinence union to St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church. The visitors were welcomed by the rector, Father Thomas W. Rosenthal. Speeches were made by the Rev. John G. Beane, B. T. Cali, P. R. Condrey, and Charles D. McShane. A great many persons signed the pledge. The men organized a total abstinence society and elected the following officers: President, R. H. Thornton; vice president, Thomas A. Nestor; secretary, Charles McNulty; treasurer, John L. Gribben; marshal, Michael Malia; stewards, Patrick McGeary, Daniel Nords and Edwin H. Albertson, spiritual director, the Rev. Thomas W. Rosensteel. A women's society, under the name of the League of Our Mother of Sorrow, was organized by Miss Nettie Connahan. The officers elected were: President, Catherine Costelle; vice president, Annie Tierney; secretary, Margaret O'Brien; treasurer, Gertrude Kane; marshal, Hannah Daley; stewards, Margaret Groark, Elizabeth Casey and Alma Rosensteel.

HUGHES BROUGHT BACK.

Speculator Charged With Conspiracy Landed in the County Jail Last Night.

Charles D. Hughes, the stock broker arrested in New York a few days ago at the instance of Dr. F. R. McGrew of Carnegie, was brought from that city last night by Constable Jas. Devlin of Alderman John Groezinger's office. Dr. McGrew alleges Hughes secured about $10,000 from him and several other residents of Carnegie, who were operating through him. Hughes had an office in Fifth avenue, near Wood street, in which C. P. Henderson was a bookkeeper and traded under the name of E. M. Hughes & Co. Dr. McGrew alleges conspiracy against Hughes & Henderson.

The latter gave bail for a court trial and Hughes was found in New York last Thursday. He was held on a requisition issued by Gov. Stone, in which he was said to be a fugitive from justice. Constable Devlin arrested him at his home in Bensonhurst, Long Island, but Hughes secured a lawyer who intended to ask for his release on habeas corpus proceedings today.

He denied his identity, said he did not know Henderson or Dr. McGrew and had never been in Pittsburgh. The writ of habeas corpus was to be argued today and arrangements were made to have several people present from this city to identify him. On Saturday night he weakened and consented to come here without further objection. Constable Devlin landed him at the county jail last night. He is already been indicted by the grand jury and his case will be tried in a few days. At the jail he gave his residence as Pittsburgh, his age as 46 and his occupation that of speculator.

You would believe a friend who told you he had been cured of these perilous consequences of overwork, dyspepsia, vertigo, palpitation, &c. Friends for nearly three-quarters of a century have related a like experience with Dr. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge.

Independence.

A savings account is a step toward independence and possible riches. You can start a savings account with as little as a dollar with the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings, Smithfield street, opposite post office, and every dollar you have on deposit earns 4 per cent interest, compounded twice a year. This is one of the very strongest banks in the country, having assets in excess of twelve million dollars to protect the savings of its 30,000 depositors. You can also bank by mail. An interesting booklet on money saving mailed to all who write and mention this paper.

MORE AMERICAN BANKS IN MEXICAN CITIES

Number of New Financial Institutions Spring Up in Various Localities.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

MEXICO CITY, March 9.—American activity in extending banking facilities here attracts notice. The new State bank of Chiapas, a remote member of the federation on the Gautemalan border, has been opened for business with $500,000 capital. The new Bank of Orizaba, with a paid-up capital of $150,000, is also a new American institution, the stock being held here in this city. Orizaba is now an important industrial center and hitherto has lacked banking accommodations. There is talk of establishing an American bank in the famous mining city of Pachuca.

All American banks in the country are flourishing and there is a rumor of the ultimate consolidation of these institutions, making one great American bank commensurate with the growing importance of commercial relations with the United States.

Many new companies for business in this country have recently been organized in the United States and in England. The German bank will establish a branch here, as Germans desire to have a bank of their own, and as they are an important factor in the commerce of the country they can easily support it.

M'ALEESE AGAIN DECLARES THE DIVES MUST GO

After a Night of Unwonted Activity the Police Gather in 150 Offenders.

FINES AMOUNTED TO $783

This Sum Was Contributed by 100 Prisoners, While 77 Were Sent to the Workhouse and 23 Were Discharged—All But 63 Were Women.

Superintendent of Police John McAleese has again declared that the dives must go. As a result Saturday night was one long series of raids. Yesterday morning 167 prisoners were arraigned before Police Magistrate Bernard McKenna, which establishes a new record for Central station. The fines and costs paid amounted to $783. Just 100 of the offenders paid fines. Seventy-seven were sent to the workhouse or jail in default of these assessments. Twenty-three were discharged.

One hundred and two of the prisoners were women and the rest men and boys. The larger part of these prisoners were taken from disorderly houses and dives. A large number were taken in as vagrants by an order of Supt. McAleese to arrest all men found on the streets who could not give a good account of themselves.

Several of the raids were made on places run under the guise of lodging houses. When the police entered these places they found the interior fitted up as a speakeasy and not a lodging house. The police also cleaned up the "Yellow Row." About 80 women were taken from this district.

Arrested in a Hayloft.

At No. 436 First avenue the police arrested Ella Redford and three visitors. This place is in a stable and two rooms were fitted up in the hay loft. Two women and three men were found in the place. The inmates heard the police approaching and the men hid themselves in the hay. When the officers entered the place they found the women, but could not see the men. A general search began and the police finally located the men by poking their canes in the hay. The women were fined $25 and the men $10.

At No. 641 Second avenue the police found 10 visitors. They were fined $10. John Cousin, the proprietress, paid $50. At No. 647 Second avenue seven visitors were found. They paid $10. Hattie White, the proprietress, was fined $25.

Five Boys Gathered In.

The establishment at No. 605 Second avenue, 13 visitors were found. All were assessed $10. Kate Hern, who was said to be the keeper of the place, was fined $25. Mabie Stern was fined $50 as the keeper of No. 657 Second avenue. The police found three colored women and five white boys in this place. They were from 16 to 18 years old. All were fined $10.

Jennie Gould of No. 15 Old avenue was fined $50 as the keeper of that establishment. Fourteen visitors, both colored and white, were found in the place. They were fined $10. Mary Zane was fined $25 for being the keeper of a miserable little hovel in Dante alley. Four men were found in the place drunk and asleep. They were assessed $10. Mamie King of No. 102 Washington street had 12 men and women in her establishment when the police came down upon her. She was fined $50, and the other inmates $10.

Cut During a Quarrel.

In a drunken quarrel Kitty Robinson was cut with a razor on the hip by Rosy Dietz in a hovel in Sachem alley. She was discharged, but the Datz woman was fined $50. Polly Robinson, who is alleged to have been the keeper of this place, was fined $25. The police also found 10 men and three other women in this place. They were fined $10.

Another resort at No. 522 Third avenue was raided. Emma Bishop, the keeper of the place, was fined $25. There were 10 inmates. All were assessed $10. The police say that this place is known as an opium joint.

Harry Belmont was found at No. 525 Third avenue and was fined $25. The police say that this man is the keeper of the place and usually wears women's clothes.

Elsie Rose was fined $25 for stealing some money from a man at No. 12 Liberty street. The other cases were of a minor character.

In the various other police stations of Pittsburgh and Allegheny there were 79 prisoners given hearings. They were of the ordinary drunk and disorderly class usual on Sunday. A few belligerent gentlemen were fined and two or three kleptomaniacs were forced to part with a bit of money. Otherwise the hearings were common place.

FARMER ATTACKED BY MANY FAMISHED CROWS

They Threatened His Life and Finally Kept Him a Prisoner for Hours.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, KY., March 9.—As a result of a most remarkable experience Friday with several thousand crows on his farm in the edge of Washington county, 20 miles from here, Daniel Wilson, a well-known farmer, has declared perpetual war on the arrow tribe and threatens to annihilate all that cross his farm.

The heavy snows and sleets of the past three weeks have been very hard on the birds and thousands of crows which make their winter home in the Chaplin cedars became almost famished. Several times Wilson found crows roosting on the backs of his sheep and making a meal out of the terrified animals' flesh.

Friday he went forth into his fields to see if any more sheep were being murdered. The field was alive with crows. He raised his gun and fired into the flock, killing a number, but to his surprise the rest flew at him and attacked him with claws and beaks. Covering his eyes with one arm and brandishing his gun over his head for protection, Wilson fled to a log cabin several hundred yards distant where he arrived, bleeding and well-nigh frightened to death. The angry crows surrounded the building and kept him prisoner till nightfall, when they flew away to the cedars.

NEIGHBORS WERE PANIC-STRICKEN

SMALL BLAZE IN ELM STREET DROVE 12 FAMILIES OUT.

Stable in the Rear of a Bake Shop Caught Fire and 2,000 Loaves of Bread, Two Mules and a Horse Were Burned—Loss, $2,000.

Fire in a small building at No. 48 Elm street used as a bake shop and a stable, caused a panic among the occupants at nearby houses, and a second alarm to be turned in for additional aid for the firemen. The building was occupied by R. Capian and several Hebrew peddlers. The loss entailed amounted to $2,000. Two mules and one horse were burned to death, with considerable hay and feed. The bakery was destroyed by the fire and a large quantity of dough and 2,000 loaves of bread destroyed by water. The mules were the property of Harry Felser, and the horse was owned by Lewis Saltz. One horse escaped from the burning stable. The losses are covered by insurance.

The fire started in the bakery. A flue running from the bake oven extending along the wall of the stable became so hot that the hay ignited. This set the loft ablaze and in an instant the upper part of the building was in flames.

An alarm was sent in from box 84, and in a few minutes the engines were on the scene. The flames were raging and seemed to threaten the whole neighborhood. The inmates of these houses had already began to get their possession out of danger. Women and children were screaming from fright. Everything was in a state of excitement. Twelve families had their possessions partly moved from their homes when the fire was gotten under control.

The horse and mules in the stable were kicking and pulling to get themselves from the burning stable. One of the frightened animals succeeded in getting out.

His mate appeared at the door of the stable, but when he saw the flames above him turned back into the stable and burned to death. Both mules succeeded in getting themselves out of their stalls. They would not budge from the stable and were slowly burned.

The action of the horses and the screaming of the neighbors excited the firemen. They seemed to think that the flames were gaining on them. Immediately a second alarm was sent in, but before the additional help arrived the flames were under control.

The contents of the bake shop were destroyed by fire and water. In the storeroom of this place there were 2,000 loaves of bread ready for delivery. They were soaked with water and ruined. A large quantity of dough and flour was also destroyed by being drenched.

The stable is cleaned out by the flames. Wagons, harness and other stable implements were consumed by the flames. The largest loss is on the peddlers. Their wagons and harness was destroyed. Their horses were not stabled there. Their loss is about $1,000. The building is owned by F. Geist and was damaged to the extent of $500. The mules and horses were valued at $500.

SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT.

Cincinnati Brewery Workmen May Resume Their Tasks Pending a Decision.

CINCINNATI, O., March 9.—The lockout of the brewery workmen of Cincinnati, Covington and Newport, which has been in progress for a month, promises to end tomorrow. The main issue now is on the brewery workmen's request that all their men be allowed to return without acting on the recognition of the engineer's contract, and that all parties to the controversy shall abide by the decision of the American Federation of Labor. The brewers state that the brewery workers would be returned if they would recognize the engineers' contract.

The United Brewery workmen were in session today and their committee on conference was given full power to close with the brewers at a conference to be held tomorrow. There were more than 2,000 men out originally, but many have returned to their posts. More than 1,000 workmen will be affected by the result of the conference tomorrow.

The Director of the Philadelphia Mint Retires Because the Salary Is Too Small.

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—(Special.)—Superintendent of the Mint Henry K. Boyer has tendered his resignation to the treasury department with the request that it be accepted as soon as possible. Mr. Boyer desires to retire as soon as a successor can be appointed and take charge.

He gives as his reason that the responsibilities entailed by the office are too great when the salary attached is considered. Ever since the removal of the mint it has been understood that Mr. Boyer's resignation might be expected. He is said to have submitted his resignation twice before, but was prevailed upon to continue in the office until the removal to Sixteenth and Spring Garden streets.

GREAT FLOOD FEARED.

Ohio River Towns Threatened by Deluge Equal to That of 1884.

EVANSVILLE, IND., March 9.—There is great alarm here over the high water. At 9 o'clock tonight the river stood at 39.6 feet and was still rising. It is almost certain a stage of 41 feet will be reached. Farmers in the lowlands are trying to save their corn in crib. Several sawmills along the Green river are submerged and the loss will be large. A stage of 41 feet will be the highest since the great flood of 1884.

The crest will not reach here before Tuesday noon, and by that time the river in some places between here and Cairo will be ten miles wide.

INJURY IS SLIGHT.

Mrs. Fiske, the Actress Who Had a Fall, Resumes Her Tour.

ST. LOUIS, MO., March 9.—Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, the actress, who was injured at the Grand Opera House last night, left for Indianapolis this afternoon with her company.

Inquiry at the Planters hotel, where Mrs. Fiske stopped while here, revealed the fact that her injury was slight, consisting only of a bruise on the head.

AGED VICTIM OF BURGLARS LAID TO REST

Hundreds of Persons Attend the Funeral of Henry B. Smith at Saxonburg.

REMAINS LAID IN STATE

All the Pittsburgh Relatives of the Murdered Man Attended the Obsequies—Coroner's Inquest Fails to Throw Light on the Perpetrators.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BUTLER, PA., March 9.—The funeral service of Henry B. Smith, who was foully murdered at Saxonburg Station last Thursday night, was held in the Lutheran church at Saxonburg this afternoon and attended by hundreds of persons, many of whom did not know Mr. Smith in life. The body was consigned to the first grave in the Smith family lot in the village cemetery.

The body, since it was prepared for burial Friday night, had been viewed by hundreds of persons, who visited the Smith house and passed through the room where occurred the awful battle which resulted in the old man's death.

Traces of Tragedy Obliterated.

All traces of the work of that fearful night had been removed, and the body lay in the parlor where the villains had cut the bottom out of the door to gain admittance.

Many Pittsburgh relatives arrived yesterday, and others came this morning to pay the last tribute to the kindly old man whom they all loved.

The coroner's jury finished its inquiry into the cause of Mr. Smith's death yesterday. Nothing new was developed and a verdict that he had come to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by unknown parties was rendered. Mrs. Smith was unable to give any more details of what happened than she has already done.

Too Frightened to Remember.

In fact, she was so badly frightened by the murderers that she did not observe their movements closely enough to give details, which would be valuable in the apprehension of the perpetrators of the deed. Mrs. Smith is not in any danger of collapse. She is still quite nervous, but otherwise is stronger than the average woman of her age, 77 years.

No further clues to the murderers have been discovered, and the sheriff of Venango county has not yet notified the authorities here whether or not he has arrested the men whom he regarded as suspicious persons yesterday. The county commissioners will not offer a reward for the capture of the murderers, but will likely employ a detective to work on the case.

Revolver Might Furnish a Clue.

An old-fashioned revolver which was in the Smith residence is missing and was likely taken by the thieves who murdered the old man. If the revolver could be found it might lead to a clue to the murderers.

Mrs. Smith will remain at the old home for a few days until she can dispose of her personal effects, after which she will go to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Heege of Allegheny.

WILL FIX UNIFORM PRICES.

Draymen's Protective Association to Adopt a List of Prices.

The Draymen's Protective Association of Allegheny county will take action on the question of uniform prices and the maximum load at a meeting to be held tomorrow night in the Builders' exchange, No. 409 Market street. A committee on prices, appointed at a previous meeting, will make its report, and a scale of prices is expected to be drafted.

President C. S. Knaur of the association sent out a circular letter Saturday to all draymen explaining something of the purposes of the association. The business before the meeting tomorrow night and inviting all in the business to attend. President Knaur says in his letter:

The association has grown rapidly since it was launched within the past few months, and the membership now represents the major portion of the hauling business in the two cities.

Boats Leaving Today.

Keystone State, Cincinnati, 4 p. m.
Ben Hur, Parkersburg, noon.

News of the Rivers.

There is lots of snow melting in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky and West Virginia. The steamer Ben Hur arrived early last night and departs at noon today. The boat has been overhauled since she was last here.

There is talk of putting a gasoline boat in the Charleston and Enterprise trade. Gasoline boats, as a general thing, have proved failures as packets.

The Keystone State is making her first trip of the season. The Kanawha is completing her first trip in the Charleston trade since the opening of navigation.

Now a railroad bridge across the river at Grand Tower, Ill., locks and dams in the rivers to help steamboats along and railroad bridges across the rivers to keep boats from running, and so it goes.

Secretary Harry Brown of the M. and O. Pilots' society, who was in Cairo in the interest of the consolidation of that organization with the American Association of Masters and Pilots, left on the Fowler for Paducah. He found the members of the organization favorable to the merging of the two societies. While there Capt. Brown, assisted by Capt. Parmley, initiated Capt. Sam E. Green, Lou Dulls and Clarence and Harry Nichols into the organization.

LEADERS WILL GO TO MEET DURHAM

ELKIN'S CANDIDACY WILL BE DISCUSSED ON WEDNESDAY.

Machine Men Will Soon Go to Philadelphia Where Demand Will Be Made That the Stone-Flinn-Brown Compact Be Lived Up To.

Recorder J. O. Brown, with several local organization leaders, will meet Israel W. Durham, Attorney General Elkin and other state machine leaders in Philadelphia on Wednesday. The candidacy of Attorney General Elkin will be discussed. Elkin is in Pittsburgh, but will leave for the east today.

He will be followed later by Recorder Brown, Fred W. Edwards, M. G. Leslie, Archibald Mackrell and possibly one or two other followers of ex-Senator William Flinn.

One matter that it is expected to be disposed of at the Philadelphia conference is the prospective attitude of the Allegheny county delegation in the state convention. Although Elkin claims enough delegates to nominate him without the aid of Allegheny county, he and Durham will demand that the bargain made at Harrisburg last fall be complied with and that Allegheny county delegates be turned over to Elkin, as Senator Flinn and Recorder Brown agreed.

Little Chance for Harmony.

If this compact is kept, the opportunity of Recorder Brown effecting a deal with the anti-Elkin element at the state convention will be remote. Since his failure on his recent trip to Florida the recorder has been fondly nursing the hope that he had another chance of effecting a compromise with the opposition through the aid of the 36 delegates from Allegheny county.

If he is forced to turn these delegates over to Elkin he can hardly expect to gain a footing with the stalwarts in this county who are opposing Elkin. It is reported on good authority that Gov. Stone will demand the Allegheny county delegates for Elkin or that Recorder Brown pay the penalty by resigning from office.

Recorder J. O. Brown will soon have an opportunity of proving that he and not Flinn, is leader of the organization. He will be asked to pull down the county candidates slated by Flinn and make the Republican primaries an open contest for all candidates.

On an Equal Footing.

As the organization is putting up the delegates over the county for Mackrell, von Bonnhorst and Edwards, the recorder will be asked to take these delegates down and put every candidate on an equal footing by compelling each to furnish his own delegates.

The old machine method of nominating county officers is to elect and make one set of delegates for two candidates—the controller and treasurer to be nominated by one set of delegates, the sheriff and clerk of courts by another, and a third set to vote for recorder and register.

Under this system Flinn and Brown effected a combination with Recorder J. R. Murphy's organization in Allegheny on the nominations of sheriff and clerk of courts. It was agreed that the delegates elected by the machines of the two cities should support Mackrell for sheriff and Richard M. Kopp of Allegheny for clerk of courts.

George W. Miller, the present clerk of courts, was dropped by the machine, but nevertheless will be a candidate for renomination if he can secure a separate convention for clerk of courts.

LIBRARY FOR BINGHAMTON.

Andrew Carnegie Has Promised to Give $20,000 for That Purpose at Once.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 9.—(Special.)—Binghamton will have a new library building which will be donated by Andrew Carnegie. This is the outcome of a movement started a year ago when aid was asked of Mr. Carnegie in constructing a public library, but no decision was made by the millionaire at that time.

It was thought he had decided to deny the request for aid and steps were taken to purchase or erect a library independent of any outside assistance. Several buildings were chosen, but on each occasion something happened to prevent their purchase.

Encouraged, but discouraged, the committee in charge of the matter has gone bravely forward and left no stone unturned to secure a building.

At present the library is located in one of the city schools with cramped quarters and few books, considering the large number of borrowers. Now it is announced that Mr. Carnegie will donate $20,000 to the construction of a handsome library the only condition being that the city each year set aside $2,000 for the purchase of new books. As this sum is already raised by the city there is nothing in the way of accepting the gift.

MARRIED HIS PRESERVER.

Kentucky Girl Whose Testimony Saved Her Cousin's Life Is Now His Bride.

LEBANON, KY., March 9.—(Special.)—At Mount Washington Baptist church Friday night, among the hills at the lower end of this county, Clarence O. Shipp, an 18-year-old boy, who was last week acquitted of the murder of David Allen and Richard Hoarde, two members of an opposing faction, was married to his first cousin, Miss Mary E. Shipp. It was the testimony of this young girl, a typical Kentucky maiden, that saved young Shipp from the gallows or the prison, say his attorneys.

During the long period that he was held in jail, awaiting trial, Miss Shipp visited her cousin Clarence almost daily, carrying him books, fruit and flowers. She always expressed the most confident belief that he would be acquitted on trial and when it came her turn to testify she gave in clear, unfaltering voice the testimony which lawyers say did more than anything else to secure Shipp's acquittal.

DECISION OF ARBITRATORS IS REJECTED

Norfolk Strikers Refuse to Return to Work on Conditions Imposed.

SAY FINDING IS UNFAIR

Labor Leader Boards Car and Is Severely Beaten in Conflict With Non-Union Conductor and Military Guard—Lines Being Operated.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NORFOLK, VA., March 9.—From present indications the strike is by no means over. It is very probable that the strikers will not accept the terms of settlement named by the arbitration committee of the chamber of commerce last night. Neither strikers nor company agreed to accept the arbitration decision. The main objection of the strikers is that they are required to work with non-union men; that only 85 per cent of them will be re-employed, and that they must sign the surety company bond.

The cars ran today under military guard and tonight the guard was doubled. The riot of last night was the fiercest since the strike started and several soldiers and citizens were injured.

Sam Kelly, a strike leader, boarded a car today and abused a non-union conductor. A fight with the guard followed and Kelly was clubbed over the head with a rifle butt. He was badly cut and when carried to police headquarters was covered with blood. Later, he was bailed for appearance in court tomorrow.

The general opinion regarding the arbitration committee's decision is that it is entirely in favor of the company. The officers of the company are satisfied. The strikers here are awaiting Richmond developments, and if there is a strike there the strike will surely continue.

The city is quiet tonight and the striking electrical workers nearly all have returned to work.

The striking car men met tonight and after a closed meeting lasting several hours decided not to go back to work under the conditions prescribed in the decision of the arbitration committee. Hugh Gordon Miller and D. J. Coleman, Jr., counsel for the strikers advised them that they were bound by their letter to the chamber of commerce to accept the arbitration committee to abide by that body's decision. The strikers refused to accept this advice and the counsel washed their hands of the case.

R. Lancaster Williams, president of the Norfolk Railway & Light Company, received the result of the meeting at the Monticello hotel and immediately communicated with the Williams people in Richmond by telephone. The company is determined to run its cars regardless of the strikers now, and will not treat with them as an organized body further. The company claims it is in position to secure 500 motormen and conductors within 12 hours.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The United States cruiser Cincinnati, which is out on a derelict destroying cruise under orders from the navy department, anchored off the Fire Island lightship at 7:40 o'clock tonight. It is probable that she has been at work blowing up the sunken fourmasted schooner John F. Randall, which went down last month nine miles southeast of the lightship and from whose crew nothing has been heard since, leaving Baltimore on her voyage to Portland, Me.

American League Hopes for Place in National

AMERICAN WANTS TWO EIGHT-CLUB BALL LEAGUES

Younger Organization Anxious for National to Remain in Field.

PEACE IS LOOKED FOR

Baltimore Team of Johnson's Organization Will Be Removed to New York—Change of Prices May Prove Popular With Patrons.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, March 9.—The action of the recent meeting of the American league in Detroit shows emphatically that the Johnson forces are determined to stick to their original policy of "two eight-club leagues of major strength, working in harmony."

At the meeting just closed it was definitely decided that the American league would not have more than eight cities in its circuit, and this policy was publically announced. While not generally known, it was also decided that when New York was added to the circuit the metropolis would come as the successor of Baltimore.

Again: the Move.

The Baltimore delegation at the meeting talked in favor of their city and against any such move, but a way will be found for the change when the time is ripe. Another matter which was definitely settled was that a place will not be made for Cincinnati in the circuit.

All of these decisions were reached with a view of giving the National league factions a chance to get together. The annexation of New York and Cincinnati as parts of a ten-club league would have been comparatively easy for the expansionists, but such a move would have wrecked the old league.

Don't Want New Rivals.

The wise heads in the American league realize that the moment their organization has the baseball field to itself enough available territory will be left open to make their organization continually liable to new rivals and another fight similar to the one it has just had with the National.

On the other hand, if the National league factions forming a second big league get together all the territory is occupied. Then if the two big leagues once coupled a understanding there would be little chance for serious war in the baseball field.

This condition of affairs is what the American leaders are looking for, and Cincinnati is one of the cities which is, according to their plans, booked for the second big league of the future.

Compromise Looked For.

Now that the American league has publicly shown that it will not take sides in the present National league controversy, it is likely that there will soon be developments looking toward a compromise between the Spalding and Freedman factions. Interesting developments from California, where President Hart is now in conference with A. G. Spalding, are expected.

The change in the scale of prices has been greatly exaggerated. Detroit was the only city which put up a fight against the move and even the Michigan magnates finally voted for the proposition when they saw that they stood alone.

Advances May Prove Popular.

The price of general admission to the games remains the same as last season, 25 cents, and there will be plenty of bleacher room for those who want the 25-cent price. The patrons who last year paid 50 cents will also have the covered pavilions which should supply their wants.

The admission to the grand stand proper is the only place where the price has actually been raised, and as it was the higher-priced seats which were sold first by Comiskey last season, it seems that the change, when once understood, will prove popular with the patrons.

NEW RULES ADOPTED.

Harry C. Shrader of Chicago Has Also Been Selected as Referee for Brooklyn Pool Tourney.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, March 9.—Contestants in the world's championship pool tournament held a meeting in Brooklyn today and adopted new rules for the tourney which begins tomorrow night.

The matter of giving the holder of the emblem 40 days in which to accept a challenge and name a date for play came up for discussion, and it was finally voted that the champion should have the option of playing in the hot weather months of June, July and August.

Harry Charles Schroder of Chicago was selected as referee for the tournament. Owing to sickness in the family of Jerome R. Keough of Buffalo Grant Eby has been substituted in the game with Irving Long tomorrow night, Stoffe and Weston play the first game. Each game is 125 points. Tuesday night Keough and Walsh and McCuna and Wernick will play.

GOOD YEAR FOR SPORTS.

Boom Looked for in All Branches of Athletics by Secretary Sullivan.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Secretary James E. Sullivan of the Amateur Athletic union, declares that the coming season will be the greatest athletics has enjoyed in 20 years. He bases his views on the unprecedented boom indoor athletics received during the past winter and the engagements which have been booked for early spring and summer.

"A great many seasons have come and gone since there has been an interest in sports such as has come to my attention the past few months," he said. "While the A. A. U. has always been busy, it has seen nothing like the spirit entertained among the clubs over indoor and outdoor sports for 20 years past. Today there are more athletes in training than I have ever known. Public interest in athletics is keen.

"It augurs well for the future of athletics. In my mind the movement is inspired by the fathers of boys who feel that their sons need something besides learning to make them competitors in the commercial and professional world. A strong body is needed to encourage a strong mind. There are more boys in athletics today than ever before. We are building up the youth of New York. The cross-country runs, the gymnasium work, the outdoor sports of every conceivable character, are all encouraged."

For the Galvin Benefit.

Thirty-six boxers have sent in their names as entries for the benefit arranged for the widow and children of the late Jimmy Galvin, which will be held in Old City hall a week from next Saturday night. The arrangements for the affair are fast being completed and it promises to be one of the biggest benefits ever given in Pittsburgh. Harry M. Stevens, the score card man, yesterday sent his personal check to the Galvin family for $25.

"JIMMY" GALVIN'S BODY IS AT REST

SIMPLE SERVICES AT THE OLD BALL PLAYER'S FUNERAL.

Friends and Admirers Gathered at the House and at the Church to Witness the Last Rites Before the Burial at Calvary Cemetery.

"Jimmy" Galvin's body was laid to rest yesterday in Calvary cemetery beneath leaden skies. The services were simple but impressive, and the floral tributes from friends and admirers were handsome and numerous. His friends did not make any lavish display of flowers, however. They preferred to honor their dead friend with substantial financial aid to his family who fully appreciated their thoughtfulness and generosity.

At the home in the rear of No. 414 East Lacock street, Allegheny, fully 100 friends gathered shortly after 1 o'clock in the afternoon and viewed the remains. The casket rested in the center of the parlor of the modest home. The floral tributes were placed on and around it. The people silently filed in and out until nearly 2 o'clock when the casket was closed and given in charge of the pallbearers who reverently bore it to the hearse.

All Were Old Friends.

The pallbearers were all old friends of Galvin, and the majority of them had played on the same teams with him in days gone by. These were Edward Swartwood, formerly right fielder with the old Allegheny club when Galvin was the pitcher; Thomas Quinn, catcher for Galvin on the old Pittsburgh team; J. E. ("Tun") Berger, also Galvin's catcher on the same team; Edward Critchlow, a pitcher on the old Pittsburgh team in 1870; William Stout, an old friend who had nursed Galvin in his last illness, and Alex McAllister, also an old friend.

The funeral arrangements were under the direction of J. J. Flannery and were perfect in detail. After the casket had been placed in the hearse, the cortege proceeded to St. Peter's pro-cathedral, Ohio street and Sherman avenue, the pallbearers occupying the first two carriages, followed by the hearse, and seven carriages containing the widow and the children, Mr. and Mrs. Balzer, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Dietz and family and other friends and relatives.

Delay at the Church.

Arriving at the church at 2:10 p. m. a slight delay occurred owing to the fact that another funeral was being held, but in a few minutes at the close of the other services the casket was carried into the church by the bearers, followed by the mourners, and placed before the altar. The church was occupied by about 500 friends of the family and old admirers and baseball friends of Galvin, prominent among whom was President Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh Baseball club.

Father M. Ryan, after the casket had been placed before the altar, advanced and read the prayers for the dead and anointed the casket with holy water. The service lasted but five minutes and then the congregation dispersed. The remains were again taken up by the bearers and returned to the hearse, and the final journey to the family plot in Calvary cemetery was commenced. Upon arriving at the grave the family and friends with tearful eyes saw the casket deposited in the earth, and Jimmie Galvin's last home run was scored.

BURKE TO RETIRE.

Bookmaker Will Quit the Ring. Claims There Is No Money in a Percentage Book.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—Edward Burke, one of the leading members of the Metropolitan Turf association, the body of bookmakers which directs the affairs of the turf, as far as the betting ring is concerned, has decided to retire from active participation in bookmaking.

The price laid by Eddie Burke have been the criterion by which the other pencilers, not only in the Metropolitan Turf association circle but also on the land line, went by.

It was Burke who invariably laid the opening prices and unlike several of the other members of the fraternity who laid opening odds, when Burke displayed a price to get a bet a horse he was willing to accept any sized bet before cutting the price even as very often happened if he proved to be out of line.

For the past two seasons Burke has operated one of the biggest books in the ring, accepting the modest bet of the piker with the same urbanity that he did that of the plunger.

It was Burke who persistently bucked up against Pittsburgh Phil on a number of occasions, and his willingness to accept large wagers from that plunger cost him a very large amount of money last season.

Burke ran a syndicate book, that is, several other sporting men were interested in it.

At one period last season, during the Saratoga meeting, the book was nearly $150,000 loser. During the latter half of the season Burke managed to recover a major portion of his earlier losses, but the end of the season there was a deficit, instead of a profit, for the backers of the book.

The retirement of Burke is induced by the belief that bookmaking is no longer profitable. Competition in the ring has been so great of late years that the making of a book on a strictly percentage basis is simply impossible.

Hart to Manage Peoria.

KANSAS CITY, MO., March 9.—Western league officials announced today that William Hart, who pitched for the Cleveland American League club last year, has been appointed to manage the Peoria Western League club. Hart will also pitch for Peoria.

BEST GYMNAST AT PRINCTON

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA BOY HOLDS THAT HONOR.

Thomas D. Cunningham of Blairsville, Is Said to Be a Wonder on the Trapeze as Well as in Other Branches of the Gymnasium Work.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PRINCETON, N. J., March 9.—Western Pennsylvania has the honor of having the finest gymnast at Princeton in the person of Thomas D. Cunningham, who comes from Blairsville, Pa.

He is without doubt the star member of this year's gym team at Princeton. The swinging trapeze, lowered in the picture to accommodate the photographer, is generally about 15 feet from the floor. This feat of balancing himself in a chair on the iron bar is only one of his many accomplishments in the gymnastic line. He can unfold a handkerchief with his teeth without touching his hands to anything. Since the handkerchief is tied to the bar this is nothing easy. Another one of his feats, which always draws the applause of spectators at exhibitions, is that of walking up two rungs of a ladder which rests on the iron bar.

George Goldie, who appears in the picture, is the gymnastic director at Princeton university, and was the prime mover of the new gymnasium. Under his tutelage Cunningham has learned all his tricks, both of tumbling and balancing. Cunningham, in the balancing trapeze, will be Princeton's representative in the "special event" contest in the intercollegiate exhibition on March 21. For several years Princeton has won this special event, and it has been about the only thing she has won in gymnastics except the flying rings, and Cunningham is expected to win this year.

In tumbling he can do: flip-flap in the swing, back somersaults in a row, forwards in a row, knee forwards, handsprings in the swing, hand-spring forward, and flip-flap-back-flip-flap, to use gymnast's terms.

GAME ROOSTER KILLS TWO CHICKEN HAWKS

Novel Cocking Main Exhibition given in Saloon Window in Zanesville, Ohio.

ZANESVILLE, O., March 9.—The novelty of a game rooster pitted successively against two monster chicken hawks was witnessed last night in the show window of a Main street saloon.

At the cocking main at Newark Thursday night a red game rooster belonging to Jacob Hartmeyer killed all the crack birds put up by Newark and carried off many hundreds of dollars for the Zanesville sports.

Last night Hartmeyer wagered $200 that his rooster could kill the two big chicken hawks confined in a cage in C. W. Morrison's south window. The wager was accepted and side bets aggregating $1,000 were made. The contest was witnessed by a crowd of 200 people.

The hawks were the largest ever captured in this section, measuring more than four feet from tip to tip of their wings. The first fight was short and vicious. Both birds rushed at each other. The hawk caught the rooster by the throat, but before he could rend the game chicken, the latter prodded him to death with the steel gaff with which he was armed.

When the first hawk was dead the second one was immediately thrown into the cage. The second fight was a longer and harder one, but also ended in the hawk being killed by the gaff.

There was a good crowd present when the men started at 12:30 o'clock. MAY CHANGE THE DATE.

Jeffries and Fitzsimmons May Be Called Upon to Fight During April.

NEW YORK, March 9.—According to reliable information the date of the proposed match between Jim Jeffries and Bob Fitzsimmons will be named when the representatives of the pugilists meet again in this city on March 15.

That day has been selected for the opening of bids from athletic clubs desirous of pulling off the combat, and the arrangement of other important details such as the picking of a suitable referee.

It is understood that either April 20 or April 27 will be chosen. From present indications the fight will take place at San Francisco, and as the racing season out there terminates about the end of next month the pugilists believe that the attendance will be larger if he racing crowd is catered to.

In expectation of the change Fitzsimmons is exercising daily at Bath Beach with Gus Ruhlin, his sparring partner, and is in fairly good shape already. Jeffries, it is understood, has already consented to box next month, and there is every prospect that "Lanky Bob", will do the same.

DURHAM'S STRING OF RACERS

Will Be Shipped to Louisville Soon and Open Coming Campaign in That City.

LEXINGTON, KY., March 9.—Hardy B. Durham, the noted trainer, who has handled so many famous racers in the last 15 years, will ship his string of ten head to Louisville in a few days, where they will receive the finishing touches to their preparation and begin the coming campaign at that place.

They have all wintered well at Horse Haven farm and look lusty and strong. Old Merito was never in better condition and Operator has greatly grown and spread out during the winter. Of the six 2-year-olds in the string Durham is particularly sweet on Gen. Prig and the filly, Gold Money, though secret information is to the effect that he has confidence of early winning with every youngster in his string.

For the first time in about 10 years Durham will be without the services of Jockey Jess Matthews this year and so far he has no regular jockey engaged.

Fayette City Officer Is Charged With Assault and Battery.

BELLEVERNON, PA., March 9.—(Special.)—Policeman Michael Burke was yesterday held for court by Justice J. W. O'Neill of Fayette City on a charge of assault and battery. The information was made by George Amalong. The latter, it is said, interfered when the officer was arresting his brother.

Burke swore out a warrant for Amalong's arrest, but before it was served the man went before Justice J. T. Rolley and gave bail. Burke later arrested him, notwithstanding his protests, and the suit resulted.

GAYLEY LABORATORY TO BE DEDICATED AT EASTON

AN ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM

Pittsburgher's Gift to Be Inaugurated by Distinguished Chemists.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

EASTON, PA., March 9.—The laboratory of chemistry and metallurgy, which has been in process of erection for some months, and which is the gift of James Gayley of Pittsburgh, will be dedicated on April 5. Mr. Gayley, who is now first vice president of the United States Steel Corporation, is one of the most successful of the recent graduates of Lafayette.

The program for the dedicatory exercises presents a most attractive series of addresses. These addresses will be made by three of the most distinguished chemists and metallurgists in America, all of whom represent the educational as well as the purely scientific side of chemical research. The speakers are: President Ira Remsen, the newly inaugurated president of Johns Hopkins university; President Thomas M. Drown of Lehigh university, for a number of years professor of chemistry at Lafayette; and Prof. Henry M. Howe of Columbia university.

The ceremony of presentation will be performed by Mr. Gayley, and will be followed by the dedicatory prayer by his father, the Rev. Samuel A. Gayley, D. D., of the class of 1847.

In addition to the dedication of the building, the use of the Henry W. Oliver library of chemistry will be inaugurated at this time. The public, and especially the alumni and former students of Lafayette college, are invited to be present upon this occasion.

DEPOSED MINISTER FORMS NEW SCHOOL

Former Cumberland Pastor Starts Movement for Organization.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CUMBERLAND, MD., March 9.—The Rev. Mr. Yost, the deposed pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheran church, who yesterday distributed circulars announcing that he intended conducting services today in Christ Reformed church, was greeted at his morning service by a large congregation. A Sunday school was organized with 80 members.

Mr. Yost when he took the pulpit this morning stated that he was going to preach the same sermon that he preached in July, 1896, when he first came to Cumberland, in order that no one could attribute anything he might say to malice or spite against the vestry or members of his former charge. Whenever any of his utterances this morning were of a revengeful dinge, he would call attention to the fact that he was preaching the same sermon he first preached in Cumberland.

He also took occasion to say that when he applied to the city council for the use of the council chamber in which to conduct services, that the vestry of his former charge had been ahead of him and influenced the city council not to grant the request, notwithstanding the fact that the Methodist Protestant church had been granted the use of the council chamber for several months, and that a man had been permitted to conduct services in the council chamber who did not believe in God.

Mr. Yost stated that he then applied for the Academy of Music, but was told by the manager that he couldn't allow him to have the hall because ministers preached against theaters, and, said Mr. Yost, "I thank God that they do."

Mr. Yost's faction will hold a meeting Wednesday night, to decide whether they will establish a church or not. If they so decide, Mr. Yost warned his followers that they must not attend other church services, but stick to their own church under all conditions.

MADE TWO ARRESTS.

Railroad Detective Assumes Guise of Tramp and Captures Alleged Thieves.

ALLIANCE, O., March 9.—(Special.)—Thomas Britton and William Bork of Pittsburgh are under arrest here charged with breaking into freight cars on the Fort Wayne railroad. The men came here on Saturday and were noticed by Lieut. Thomas Gibbon of the Pennsylvania railroad police. Assuming the guise of a tramp, Gibbon fell in with the men and went the rounds of saloons on Saturday night.

Later the trio broke into cars and then went to Sebring and entered other cars. They later went to Garfield station, but Britton missed the train. The detective and Bork went to the residence of Constable McArtor, Bork believing it to be a fence. The constable locked Bork up and the detective then came back to Sebring and arrested Britton. They will be given a hearing on Monday.

AGED COUPLE BEATEN BY FOUR MASKED BURGLARS

VICTIMS GAVE BATTLE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CORRY, PA., March 9.—James Crowe and his aged wife were terribly injured by masked burglars at their home in the west end of this city early this morning.

Shortly after 2 o'clock Mr. Crowe was awakened by some one at the door and almost immediately it opened and four masked men surrounded his bed. The spokesman demanded any money which might be in the house.

With one leap Mrs. Crowe left the bed and grasped one of the intruders by the throat and a fierce struggle began. Mr. Crowe attempted to fight, but was struck a blow on the head and sank to the floor senseless. Seeing the condition of the couple the men became frightened and ran from the house. They left behind several revolvers and two derby hats.

About 5 o'clock Crowe recovered consciousness and dragged himself to a neighbor's house and gave the alarm.

Crowe is employed as a gateman by the Pennsylvania railroad and it is supposed the robbers believed he had some money concealed about the house. It is believed by some that the Butler county murderers had a hand in this crime.

WILL HELP PHYSICIANS.

Summer School in Philadelphia Will Enable Them to Keep Pace With Profession.

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—(Special.)—The medical department of the University of Pennsylvania will soon establish a spring school of medicine for practitioners. The movement has been contemplated for some time. A series of courses will be offered which are designed to be practical in character and meet the needs of the practitioner. The reasons for and the purpose of such a school are set forth by Provost Harrison as follows:

"The many advantages possessed by a large medical school in promoting and teaching the science and art of medicine make it desirable that others than undergraduate students should be admitted to its benefits. There exists a body of physicians, who, either because their professional lives are spent away from a live commercial center or because of original defects in their training, find it difficult or impossible to keep in touch with the progress of medicine. For such of these physicians as may desire to extend, complete or revive their past training a graduate course of study would be of great advantage."

STEVEDORES KILLED WITHOUT A TRIAL

Grave Charges Made Against Two Officers of the Marine Corps.

SYMPATHY FOR WALLER

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

MANILA, March 9.—Col. James Forney of the Marine corps will preside at the court martial to try Maj. Littleton W. T. Waller and Lieut. John H. A. Day of the Marine corps, March 17, on the charge of executing natives of the Island of Samar without trial.

The court-martial will be composed of army officers and officers of the Marine corps. The charges specify that Maj. Waller and Lieut. Day killed three native stevedores on the streets of Basey Island of Samar, without trial. These stevedores were among those who accompanied the disastrous expedition of Maj. Waller and a detachment of marines to the interior of Samar last December.

It is claimed these stevedores mutinied and proceeded to the foothills, where they dug camotes (a variety of sweet potato) and that they later concealed and refused to turn them over to the Americans, saying that when the marines died of hunger they would have a good supply of arms and ammunition.

Sympathy is expressed for Maj. Waller, who, at that time, was suffering from mental and physical strain. Lieut. Day apparently obeyed Maj. Waller's orders.

Lieut. Howland of the Twenty-first infantry, aid on the staff of Gen. Wheaton, who was sent to report on the state of affairs in Risal province after the recent outbreak of activity there, reports that the insurgents have now been dispersed and that the soldiers and constabulary are closely pursuing them.

There is but a small force of insurgents in the province, and they are greatly over-officered. It is clear that the insurgents in Rizal province had no idea how quickly the troops and constabulary could concentrate and break their power. Complete harmony exists between the American soldiers and the native constabulary in this district, and both have done excellent work during a short campaign.

The troops consisted of six officers and 230 men of the Fifth cavalry.

ANOTHER NOTE IS HANDED THE PORTE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 9.—The American legation here today presented to the Porte the second note referring to the capture of Miss Ellen M. Stone.

In this note it is pointed out that as Miss Stone was captured, the ransom paid and the prisoners delivered in Turkey, the brigands must be within the Turkish frontier and should therefore be captured.

The note denies that the authorities were ever required to lessen their vigilance on the frontier and asserts that only the movements of the troops in the interior were interfered with.

The first note presented to the porte by the United States legation at Constantinople in the matter of Miss Stone's capture by brigands demanded the punishment of the guilty parties. The porte, in replying, repudiated responsibility.

SEALERS ON ASTRIKE.

Owners and Captains Refuse to Accede to the Demands of Their Employes.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., March 9.—In the matter of the strike of the crews of the sealing fleet, numbering about 3,000 men, who yesterday demanded $4 per hundredweight for the catch instead of $3 20, the previous rate, the sealing merchants last night declined to accede to any of the terms submitted by the men. The merchants intimated that the price for seals would be at least $3 20 per hundredweight, the same as last year, but declined to indicate whether any advance was likely. The authorities say that the conditions of the foreign markets renders an advance improbable.

Regarding the other claims presented by the men for better accommodations and other minor concessions, it is understood the merchants are willing to make reforms next year, but decline to alter existing conditions under threat of strike. The matter is now at a deadlock, and both sides are working hard to score a victory. The owners and captains claim that the strike has virtually collapsed, and that all the men are ready to sail tomorrow, being satisfied that certain modifications will follow.

EXCITEMENT IN IRELAND.

Two Supposed Irish League Members Arrested for Firing Into a House.

DUBLIN, March 9.—The belief that the United Irish league is about to be proclaimed caused great excitement at Kilrush, County Clare, today, and the arrest of two men named Crowley and Eustace, who were charged with moonlighting and firing into the house of a woman who had purchased hay from a farmer who was under the ban of the league.

Yesterday a man named O'Donnel was arrested and sentenced to one month in prison for trying to prevent this farmer from selling hay.

DISMISSED FROM ARMY.

Russian General, Responsible for Massacre, Relieved of Command.

BERLIN, March 10.—The Russian general, Gribski, who was responsible for the massacre at Blagovestchensk, has been dismissed from the army.

According to reports of the Blagovestchensk massacre about five thousand Chinese were driven by the Russians into the Amur river. Russian troops on the banks clubbed or shot any who attempted to land and the river bank was strewn with corpses for miles.

RAGSDALE SUPPORTS AMERICAN CLAIMS

Maintains Firm Front in Mission Property Dispute at Tientsin.

IN HANDS OF MINISTERS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

TIEN-TSIN, March 9.—The mission property here, which is in dispute between the French and American consuls, is less than two acres in extent. It borders the American mission property, and was pureviously occupied by undesirable Chinamen. The French consul stopped building operations on the disputed property and placed a policeman there. The French flag has not been raised over the property.

The American consul here, James W. Ragsdale, is maintaining a firm attitude and does not believe serious developments to be likely. The affair is in the hands of the French and American ministers at Peking.

The English Methodist mission of London, the American board of commissioners for foreign missions and the American Methodist mission all have property within the extra concession claimed by the French in June, 1900. Since that time the American missions have purchased the adjoining piece of property. The French now claim this latter property and have been collecting rents and levying taxes thereon. Mr. Ragsdale protested against such actions and caused American flags to be hoisted over the property in question.

PEKING, March 9.—Chinese officials are greatly disturbed over the conditions at Jehol (Cheng Te), about 100 miles northeast of Peking, where bandit soldiery have captured a priest. An official of the foreign office declares that the Russians have already dispatched 500 troops to Jehol from the Manchurian border.

The trouble began over the settlement of claims of native Christians, and it resulted in rioting between the Christians and the non-Christians. Brigands took advantage of these conditions to pander the country and the Russian telegraphic connections were incidentally cut. The foreign office says that the captured priest is a Belgian.

New Wells in Old Territory

Operators in the lower southwest fields were more successful in finding more good producers during the past week than for some time past. The wells were not confined to any particular locality, but distributed through at least a half a dozen fields. Unfortunately for those who have been patiently watching for new pools, none of the new strikes pointed the way, for the reason that all, with one exception, are located in territory that has been under development for many months and are no incentive to push developments in advance of limits previously defined. The well that was of greatest interest is located in the Smithfield district in Marion county, and is owned by the South Penn Oil Company and is this company's No. 4 on the Jacob Cunningham farm. The well was drilled into the first pay and got a show of oil, but unless deeper drilling brings an increase in production it will be a small producer and in novise improve the outlook for an extension to the north of the initial well. There is not much doubt, however, as to the development of a Gordon sand pool in the end. The second well started on the farm is located 800 feet east of No. 1 and should get the sand today, and for the next few weeks all the wells completed in this locality will have some bearing on the surrounding territory touching an extension.

North of the Pine Grove development in Wetzel county the South Penn Oil Company's test well on the Wesley Dulaney farm is holding up at better than 300 barrels a day and gives assurance of an extension of the producing territory more than a mile to the north of the field proper. About midway between this well and the developments on the Hoyt track, but completely surrounded by the latter, E. H. Jennings & Bros.' No. 2 on the J. Ruch farm is holding up at 250 barrels a day and is now the best producer in Wetzel county. All told this company and the Hoyt heirs will have quite a block of territory to develop during the spring and summer, and as now indicated should furnish a creditable amount of new production.

It was a dull week for Marshall county. The wells completed were ordinary in size and not important as to location. The present week should see a number of important test wells completed. The Wheeling Gas Company has one on the N. Gilbert farm on Fish creek that will be watched with interest in operations and new production in this district continues to and will likely hold that position for a time.

In the Salem district, on Indian run, Harrison county, the Federal Oil Company seems to have a good thing on the Edward Connelly farm. This company drilled in its No. 3 on this farm last week and the well started to flow at the rate of 13 barrels an hour and can be conservatively estimated as a good 200-barrel producer. North of this well the same company is due in the sand at an important test well on the J. W. Curtis farm. Operators in this part of Harrison county are having fairly good success and the territory as defined has not been fully developed.

On the headwaters of Leading creek, Freedmans creek district, Lewis county, the South Penn Oil Company drilled its wildcat on the J. W. Knapp farm and has a duster in all sands. This was purely an experimental well and drilled for general results without any relation to previous developments.

In the Salem district the South Penn Oil Company secured a good producer when it drilled in its No. 4 on the S. C. Barnes farm. The well produced 380 barrels the first 20 hours after it was drilled into the pay streak. Northeast of the Gantz sand pool on Hinks creek, Lewis county, the South Penn Oil Company met with another disappointment, it looking for an extension, when it drilled in its test well on the G. W. Brown farm. Several new producers of small average size were added to the fifth sand development on Indian Fork in the same county. Except to the north this pool has been quite fully defined.

The Big Injun sand on the South Fork of the Hughes river, Ritchie county, is nearing the end. Not more than a half-dozen wells are now drilling and they are all inside of defined limits. Mosier & Co.'s test on the E. J. Lowther farm looked like a sure thing when it was started, but coming in a rank duster put a quietus to an extension in that direction. On the same stream in Murphy district there is quite a good showing of new work starting with a view to opening a salt sand pool. Two test wells of small size were completed during the past week.

On account of cold weather little progress has been made at the wildcats drilling in Roane, Wirt, Calhoun and Jackson counties.

The new Freeport development in Greene county is making a creditable showing. The South Penn is operating this territory and during the week drilled in a test well on the Jane King farm and not only secured a producer good for 100 barrels a day, but an eastern extension to the east side of developments. The test well on the McCracklin farm, to the northeast of the Bristoria development, is holding up at 15 barrels a day and will encourage the search for other and better producers in that locality. No other part of the lower southwest has any attractions aside from those mentioned, and Southeastern Ohio is without any calling for special mention. In the shallow sand territory in Morgan and Washington counties operations are increasing. With few exceptions the new wells are small producers or dusters.

In the local fields the Turkey Foot and Murdockville extensions are the only two developments that show any life.

NEW TEXAS OIL FIELD A LIVING FACT!

I have just returned to Boston, after spending nearly two weeks at the scene of operations of the King-Crowther Corporation in Atascosa, Live Oak and McMullen Counties, Texas.

I made this trip to Texas on my own initiative. I went there for the purpose of seeing with my own eyes the exact condition existing with reference to the development work in the field in the vast territory which is owned and controlled by the corporation.

I remained in the field long enough to satisfy myself absolutely on all important points. I saw the oil wells which have been drilled, and made a careful examination of the high grade illuminating and lubricating oil which is being found in great abundance. Being familiar with the Lima district in Ohio, near my former home, I regard this oil as equal if not superior to that of the Lima district. There is absolutely no grit in the oil, and it was immediately used as it came from the wells, in my presence, on the running machinery and proved thoroughly satisfactory as a lubricant.

I ascertained after a careful personal examination that this oil is reached in three strata, the first at a depth of about 500 feet, the second at 750 feet, and the third between 1,100 and 1,200 feet, the later stratum being the strongest. Of the holdings of this corporation, not less than 30,000 acres are now proven to contain this oil in sufficient quantities for commercial success. I have no reason to doubt that the remainder of the property also contains oil in like quantities.

After traveling over this very extensive property, as I did, and applying the Ohio rule of four wells to one acre, and being fully satisfied in my own mind that each well will yield a handsome profit to its owner, I was impressed with the great future of this corporation, which is really beyond estimation of the average mind.

I examined the deeds and leases held by the corporation, and found everything to be duly recorded in the three counties, and that the leases convey to this corporation all the mineral rights for terms of 25 and 50 years. I had the pleasure of meeting Judge N. R. Wallace, of Pleasanton, Texas, who was Mr. Crowther's legal representative during the seven years of his struggle in securing this property.

The development work is being pushed, and Mr. Crowther told me that he thought it would be but a short time when his present facilities would enable him to bring in a well every 15 days. The obstacles in the way have been many, and Mr. Crowther certainly deserves great credit for his untiring energy, but he thinks from now on it will be comparatively easy. He has completed arrangements for tank storage for 100,000 barrels. It is only 35 miles to railroad and 65 miles to tide-water, and pipe lines will be immediately built to take the oil from these large tanks.

To me it is now but a commercial or business proposition, and, taking the energy of the corporation since its organization to this time as a criterion, I believe that the commercial end of the enterprise will be pushed with characteristic energy and good judgment, and that this will be shown in early dividends, which will certainly cause all stockholders to smile very broadly.

O. E. LEWIS.

Boston, March 7, 1902.

NOTE—Mr. O. E. Lewis is now, and has been for several years, prominently identified with the shoe machinery business of Boston. He is well and favorably known in the shoe trade through the entire country, and those who know him give him a reputation for conservatism and truthfulness in all statements.

Mr. Lewis is Vice President of the King-Crowther Corporation, and he has just returned to Boston after a careful tour of inspection of the oil lands located in southern Texas, owned and controlled by the corporation. The statements of Mr. Lewis will be received as absolute truthful utterances by all persons to whom he may be known personally or by reputation.

VOICE OF THE LOCAL TEXAS PRESS:

From the San Antonio, Texas, Daily Express, February 26, 1902.

KARNES CITY, Texas, February 24.—This town is pretty well worked up over the oil discoveries near Campbellton. Though this is the shipping point for the big company operating there and all the heavy machinery and casing for its operations have been unloaded here, the people have not put much faith in it. They could not believe there was oil so close to Karnes City. The most skeptical are now convinced it is not a fake, and many have been welcomed and shown around the field so they can speak from their own knowledge. Even yet they do not realize that the construction of a pipe line and the establishment of refineries at this place will make it a city in fact as in name.

The company operating this field has paid cash for what it bought and asked nothing from the people here. Another big drilling outfit is on the road and expected here daily. People here were slow to get the oil fever, but now they "have it bad."

From the Pleasanton, Atascosa County, Texas, Monitor, February 27, 1902.

For the past few months there have been various reports about oil having been struck down about fourteen miles south of Campbellton in the northeastern part of McMullen County. The editor, accompanied by County Attorney Smith, took it upon themselves to personally investigate the matter and to verify the reports.

In this issue we will give briefly the situation as it now stands, and give a full detailed account in next week's Monitor. There was no "spotter" as was first reported. When they struck gas last Saturday it threw mud and water out of the well about 75 or 100 feet above the ground. This was 50 feet above where they struck the oil.

In our next issue we will give a more elaborate account of the company's proceedings, its aims and all about its territory. They have got the oil, because we saw it with our own eyes. It is not to be compared with Beaumont oil, either—it is of a fine illuminant quality.

From the San Antonio, Texas, Daily Express, February 23, 1902.

PLEASANTON, Texas, February 21.—(Special correspondence)—There is no doubt that a rich deposit of oil at a depth of 950 feet has been discovered at a point 14 miles south of Campbellton, near where Atascosa, McMullen and Live Oak Counties join. The persistent reports of a rich strike led the Express correspondent to visit the scene. There he found hospitable people, who were kind enough to show him all through their fields and to tell him of their operations. Upon approaching the well—which they call their Number 4—a deep rumbling sound as of a distant thunder can be heard, which grows more audible as one approaches the well, and when one stands over it a clamorous, bubbling, seething sound is heard.

The oil was found seven to ten feet below the sea, and appears to be a rich deposit of lubricating oil. It was found in a kind of green sand, varying in depth 12 or 15 feet.

NOTICE OF ADVANCE

A meeting of the Board of Directors of this corporation will be held at the corporation's Boston office at noon Tuesday, March 11th, for the purpose of hearing a detailed report from Vice President O. E. Lewis, who has just returned to Boston after a careful tour of inspection of the corporation's oil lands located in southern Texas, and it has already been decided to advance the price of this stock to a figure considerably above par at that time. This has been positively agreed upon, and fair notice is hereby given to all persons contemplating an investment here. The price of stock until the close of business Thursday, March 13th, will remain at $1 (par) per share.

One hundred and forty-two square miles of oil land owned and controlled absolutely. Thirty thousand acres now proven to contain high grade luminant and lubricating oil sufficient for big commercial success! Five producing wells and drillers working day and night!

This stock will continue to advance from month to month until it has reached a figure unparalleled in oil development. To those familiar with all the facts in the case, there is a conviction that this stock represents the very best investment now before the public. Orders sent by mail will be accepted at this price if mailed before Friday, March 14. Certificates issued in lots of 100 shares or more.

Many fortunes will be made by investments in this stock. A few hundred dollars invested now bids fair to be worth as many thousands in the very near future. Send your order today and get in before the big advance is announced, and remember that this stock is not a speculation, but a secure investment, and so recognized in all financial centres of the country. The Oil found everywhere on this Corporation's vast domain is of the highest and best grades of illuminant and lubricating qualities, for which there is a waiting market wherever the sun shines. It will not be possible to buy this stock at $5 a share in six months from this date. Put your surplus cash to work here.

PITTSBURGH PRICES FOR FARM PRODUCTS

Oats and Ear Corn Decline. Strawberries Plentiful and Cheap.

Summary for Last Week.

There was a week of slow selling in the hay and grain markets, no line showing any activity. Any changes in quotations which have been made have been in the direction of lower figures, with the single exception of rye, which closed the week fractionally stronger than it opened. Straw has declined 25 cents a ton from top notation, all descriptions being included in the reduction. Ear corn went up a fraction Saturday and oats dropped a half cent at the same time. Timothy hay went down early in the week under the influence of heavy receipts and light demand.

Flour has been variable, fluctuating from day to day with wheat conditions. There will likely be a weather market for some time. At the close of the week there were indications of a little firmness, but as to quotations jobbers seemed to differ, and prices are actually very close to those of a week ago. Sugar declined five points early in the week, and another decline is rumored, but has not come. Coffee is unchanged. Navy beans remain as they were, while marrowfat and red kidney are a trifle weaker. Cornmeal is being sold by some jobbers lower than last quotations given, and a wider range of figures is necessary to cover the situation. Prunes are different grades. Canned goods are unchanged, but firm, while dried and evaporated fruits show a stronger feeling, with slightly increased quotations for apricots.

In fruits and produce there have been few changes of importance. Apples are steady at old quotations. Potatoes are a trifle firmer on stock, with sweets unchanged. Cabbage quotations were somewhat reduced during the week owing to the decreased receipts since country roads became bad. Sweet potatoes are still scarce and high. Strawberries and there are no outside fancy prices such as obtained during the first of the week when receipts fell away down, and quotations stiffened up correspondingly. Cabbage is somewhat lower than last quoted. Florida tomatoes are higher. String beans have declined. Lettuce and celery show little, if any, change, but demand is better, as it is time for radishes and shipkarl. Strawberries went down rapidly on Friday and Saturday on account of very heavy receipts, reaching the lowest point of the season. Tropical fruits have sold steadily at quotations, which are about the same as they have been for two weeks.

Butter declined one cent per pound last Monday, and what will happen today cannot be predicted; the local market is slow, but throughout the country there is a firmer feeling and quotations may not be changed. Cheese is very firm and unchanged. Eggs have been hit hard by heavy arrivals and prices today are from 8 to 9 cents lower than at the beginning of last week.

Poultry is in light demand owing to high prevailing prices. Receipts are very meager, especially for live stock, and dressed is too high in price for profitable handling. Dealers expect to see more shipments come in now that eggs are cheaper, which fact will induce farmers to let go of fowls they have been unwilling to part with while eggs commanded such high figures.

LEAKING MAINS IN OHIO RIVER MAKE GEYSERS

SPOUT AT INTERVALS

Every Two Minutes One Leak Sends a Jet of Spray Three Feet Into the Air—Steamboats Give Wide Berth to Escaping Gas in Midstream.

Since the big ice gorge passed down the Ohio river week before last residents about the mouth of Jacks run have been entertained and some timid steamboatmen have been scared by two small geysers that have formed in the Ohio. They are caused by leaks in the gas mains of the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company and the Consumers Gas Company. One is near the middle of the river, the other about 100 feet from the northern shore.

The mains of both companies cross the river into the mouth of Jacks run, up the hill and out through Bellevue. On the north side of the river, Bellevue and the western end of Allegheny and the boroughs below Bellevue are supplied with gas, and on the south side the Consumers company supplies Anderson, Dupuy & Co.'s mills, and the Manufacturers company's mains furnish gas to the Pittsburgh Malleable Company, the Pressed Steel car works, and the settlements reaching out to Fairhaven on the Castle Shannon railroad, and beyond.

Supply Not Affected.

Although the mains have sprung leaks the gas supply still keeps up, the amount that escapes not lessening the flow materially. The main of the Consumers company is of the low pressure variety, and the gas flows to the surface at intervals of about two minutes, somewhat after the manner of Old Faithful geyser in Yellowstone park. The current will flow silently along for a short space of time, when suddenly a mushroom-shaped elevation appears on the surface, followed by a spray that shoots up three feet; then the water flows on as before.

Out in the center of the stream the ruffled water from the other leak is constant, at least for an hour yesterday afternoon there was no intermission. There was a continuous boiling up of the water and a squirting of spray, and from the hilltop above Jacks run the exhibition was like a rifle caused in a rapid stream by a rock or some other obstruction at the bottom.

Gave It a Wide Berth.

The steam ferryboat Steel Queen gave the leak in the middle of the river a wide berth all day yesterday, although an officer of the Manufacturers company said that there was no danger. It is probable that there is not enough gas to cause serious damage to a steamboat by communicating with the fires under the boilers, but as a steamboat was recently destroyed by a large leak in a gas main farther up the river the captains prefer to be on the safe side and stay away from a place of even possible danger.

The company was informed Saturday that a man in a skiff had tried to ignite the gas by throwing lighted squibs of paper at the place where it arises. Fortunately for him he failed in his purpose, for it is probable that had the gas caught fire he would have been burned to death, as the flames, blown about by the wind, might have reached him, setting low in the water as he was.

Tried to Hire a Diver.

The company tried yesterday to hire a diver, but as the current is very swift the man was afraid that if there was a hole in the bed of the river under the pipe he might be carried under the main and entangle the stripper.

If the water does not fall soon and no diver will undertake the work, the Manufacturers main may be connected on the south shore with the main of the Consumers company. This main leaks, too, as described, but the leak is close to the shore and can be repaired much easier than the other. With low water the breaks could be repaired without trouble. The Manufacturers company has a man stationed at the mouth of Jacks run, watching for other leaks.

The ice that came down the river is supposed to have strained the pipe and broken a thread or two in it at the point where they are screwed together. The leaks are large enough to let gas escape but too small to allow the water to enter.

ORGANIZING A UNION.

Stationary Engineers of the City Affected a Temporary Association Yesterday Afternoon.

A temporary organization of the stationary engineers of the two cities was effected yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the Building Trades Council, by officials of the International Union of Steam Engineers. Sixty men of the craft signed the agreement to join, and a charter will be applied for at once and a permanent organization will probably be formed at another meeting next Sunday afternoon.

General Organizer Herbert Williams and A. J. Duffy, business agent of Pittsburgh local No. 86, composed of hoisting and portable engineers, aided by ex-Vice President Henry Ketter of the general organization, conducted the meeting. Stationary engineers present declared that their object is to better wages and other working conditions, and also to work for legislation providing license laws for the craft.

The wage question will hardly be taken up in the definite way for many months to come, as but most of the 3,000 stationary engineers of the two cities are organized. Williams has this work in charge. It was stated that now the stationary engineers are working for $60 for 90 and 31 days and 12 hours a day. Hoisting engineers are getting 33½ and 40 cents an hour and are demanding 50 cents after May 1.

FUNERAL SERVICES TODAY.

Last Rites Over the Bodies of Two Priests.

Funeral services for the Rev. Father Conway, deceased pastor of St. Richard's Roman Catholic church, will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The body will be removed from the parochial residence and will lie in state in the church until then. A solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated by the Rev. Father Griffin. Previous to the mass the office of the dead will be chanted by the priests of the diocese. The Rev. W. C. Kelly of Grafton will preach the funeral sermon. In the afternoon the body will be taken to Trenton, N. J., via the Pennsylvania railroad, interment being tomorrow morning at Norristown, the dead priest's early home.

A sad scene was witnessed by a few friends of the dead priest yesterday afternoon, when his aged mother, who has been prostrated since his death, was carried downstairs into the room where his body lay. She looked at him for a few moments, and then had to be carried away.

A committee from St. Richard's church and about 20 priests and others will take the remains to his childhood home.

The Rev. Father J. P. O'Neil, who died in the Mercy hospital the same day as Father Conway, will be buried this morning from St. Agatha's church, Ellwood City.

A NEW MINISTER HAS BEEN CALLED

THE REV. E. E. HASKINS OF JOHNSTOWN INVITED TO LOCAL PULPIT

Congregation of the First United Brethren Church Want Him Here — He Preached to Them Yesterday and Intimates That He Will Accept Call.

The Rev. Edward E. Haskins, pastor of the First Brethren church, Johnstown, Pa., has received a unanimous call to the First church of this city, Fiftieth and Butler streets. He occupied the pulpit yesterday at both services, and made a deep impression on the congregation.

Mr. Haskins will give a decisive answer to the call probably before leaving the city today. The general opinion is that he will accept, though his congregation has made a strong plea to hold him, advancing his salary $100, which makes his annual income $1,000.

The First church of this place is a struggling congregation, made up of workers, and offers but little opportunity save hard work. The congregation here has offered him $700 a year, and a parsonage, which adjoins the church, so that even with the parsonage, the total would still be nearly $100 short of the offer made by the home congregation.

Money Not Considered.

Mr. Haskins says, however, that the fee feature is not the main consideration.

"This does not enter into my plans a bit," he said yesterday. "This is a struggling congregation that needs help at once. Some one must answer this call. I realize that the congregation has done its best, and admire their conscientiousness in making no pretensions by offering salaries they could not meet. If I decide to accept, which is not improbable, it will be because I see the hand of God leading me to this particular field."

The First Brethren church has been without a pastor since last October, when its regular pastor, the Rev. Roger E. Darling, entered evangelistic work in California. D. J. Bole, common councilman-elect from the Twentieth ward, has been preaching in the church from time to time.

Mr. Haskins delivered a sermon yesterday morning on "Christian Positivism," taking for his text: "That thou might know the certainty of those things wherein thou hast been instructed," Luke 1-14. He said in part:

Religion Not a Negation.

"When Comte gave the world his system of philosophy called 'Positivism,' he gave religion no place among the positives, putting it rather among the speculations of the human mind. This could not be, must not be, shall never be. Christianity is not a negation, neither is it a speculative theory.

"While there are many things based on speculation and theory, or on negations, the Christian religion is based on the solid rock of undying truth not guesses, but facts; not theories, but truths that are self-evident. The Christian religion is founded on a Person, and the history of that Person—Jesus Christ, Son of God, like unto Him in all things, the Redeemer of the world.

"That your speculative friends will say, 'What reasons can you evince that Christianity has determined its right to be classed among the positives?' and I answer, 'There is the inspired and imperishable word, with all its helpful promises every one of which have been verified to the letter.'

No Spoken Word Has Failed.

"Let any man test this and he shall find that not one word which He has spoken has failed."

"This is not the realm of the theorist, my Christian friends, and no one can satisfy himself as to the truth of God save those who approach Him, feel Him in them guiding their every step; only those, I repeat, who permit the operation of this truth of God upon themselves can know the truth of Christian positivism.

"Again the conversion of the human race has proven and is proving that the religion of Jesus Christ is a great and positive force for good. It has lifted men from the lowest depths of sin and crime times out of number, and will do so again and again.

"Thousands of creditable witnesses stand by to verify the truth of the positiveness of Jesus Christ's religion, and repudiate the ideas of the theorists who would make religion a speculative thought."

KNIGHTS OF THE KINGDOM.

The Rev. Mr. Hawes of Braddock Preached an Interesting Sermon on Christ's Followers.

The Rev. George E. Hawes, pastor of the Braddock United Presbyterian church, preached an interesting sermon last night on "The Knights of the Kingdom." It was a figurative sermon of gallantry in the service of Christ. He said in part:

"The knight who rides after Jesus Christ must be a man of noble blood. He must be well-born, well reared, well trained. No churl rides in his train. No man who is of the soil can come near enough to be counted among the hosts which go forth with the King to battle. And to this must be added the fact that he must be a man of noble deeds. These are no novices, mere candidates for knightly honors; but knights who have won their spurs upon hard-fought fields and who have shown that all the metal is not in their blades, but the most of it is in their souls. Indeed, every man who rides close has killed his man! Put down his enemy and risen triumphant over the body of his most inveterate, implacable foe.

"Does that sound bloodthirsty? We fight not for points, but for victory. And only he who has come up through the great tribulation incident to a great mortal struggle can be a part of the great host. And his crowning feature is, he must be a man of the purest ideals, the loftiest aspirations, the noblest thoughts. He is to be to his king as to his own conscience, and to his conscience as to his king. Though the world be full of things that are base they must not be a part of him. If he must walk through pitch his own garments must be undefiled. Such men ride on white horses after him who has on his corselet and on his thigh a name written, 'King of Kings, and Lord of Lords.'"

SIN AND ITS CURE.

General Topic on Which Minister of Interesting History Will Speak This Week.

The Rev. Lyman P. Powell, who will make the noon-day addresses at Trinity church this week, is well-known in Western Pennsylvania. Though a young man his career is full of interest. He graduated from Johns Hopkins University in 1890. While still a student he rendered signal service to his alma mater by securing for her the gift of the celebrated Bluntschli library, the finest collection of historical records of southern cities in existence.

After remaining two years at Johns Hopkins as university scholar and librarian of the Bluntschli library Mr. Powell became lecturer in history for the University of Wisconsin and later on took up the same work for the American University Extension society. In 1895 he was ordained and has since built two churches and is now rector of St. John's, Lansdowne, Pa.

Mr. Powell is author of an educational history of Delaware, editor of "The American Historic Towns Series," and of "Current Religious Thought," also he is a contributor to the Atlantic Monthly, the Review of Reviews, Harper's Weekly, the Sunday School Times and many other periodicals.

He comes well qualified to make the noon-day Lenten addresses of the week of March 10, full of unusual interest and significance. His subjects are as follows: General topic, "Sin and Its Cure;"

The Rev. Lyman P. Powell.

March 10, "Sin Everywhere;" March 11, "Its Very Nature;" March 12, "The Invariable Test;" March 13, "Cure Always Possible;" March 14, "The Certain Cure;" March 15, "Our Pressing Duty."

BIG IMPORT OF PIG IRON.

Three Thousand Tons Are Now on the Way from England to Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—(Special.)—The British steamship Myrtledene, Captain Yule, is now en route to Philadelphia from Middlesborough-on-the-Tees, England, laden with 3,000 tons of Cleveland pig iron. The cargo is the first consignment of 3,000 tons of pig iron recently purchased by firms in this city. Other shipments are expected to arrive soon. Last November the German steamship Hispania arrived here from Stettin with 2,800 tons of spiegel iron and negotiations are now pending for the shipment of pig iron from the same district.

Great competition exists between the north of England localities and the Baltic ports for the shipment of pig iron to the United States. Thus far the English have secured the bulk of the American orders. For a vessel to come to Philadelphia from the north of England with iron is unusual, and, while the freight rate paid the Myrtledene is only $1.56 a ton, ship owners regard its acceptance as a better business venture than hazarding steamships in western ocean voyages at this season with water as ballast.

Make him take it. His night cough has kept you awake long enough. He wouldn't be so stubborn about it if he knew how quickly Ayer's Cherry Pectoral would cure a cough, even the coughs of bronchitis, croup, asthma, and la grippe. When he's cured he will thank you for insisting upon having your own way.

Your own doctor will uphold you in this. Try him and see.

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my daughter of a very bad cough after we had tried about everything else without relief."

WORKERS VOTE TO ADHERE TO FIRST DEMAND

Bridge and Structural Iron Men Consider Scale Proposition in Detail.

SETTLEMENT EXPECTED

Both Parties to the Contention Believe That an Agreement Will Be Reached Before the Scale Year Begins May 1.

Pittsburgh bridge and structural iron workers yesterday evening voted unanimously to adhere to the demand for 50 cents an hour and an eight-hour day after May 1. The workers crowded their headquarters at No. 510 Wylie avenue for six hours yesterday afternoon and evening and discussed in detail a long scale proposition submitted by the American Bridge Company, along with the demands made for the workers at all points where the big bridge company has contracts.

Pittsburgh will be a pivotal point in the settlement of a general scale. At the present time the organization of the workers here is the largest in the country, there being now 1,876 members in Pittsburgh local No. 3, International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. This is out of a total paid-up membership of about 7,000 men in all local organizations.

Will Better the Local Status.

The workers and their leaders here, supported by the national organization, are demanding the advanced wage to put the Pittsburgh district on a par with the big cities, where the same rate is now paid. This is the rate in Chicago, St. Louis and Newark, N. J., and under the scale negotiations the bridge company has offered to advance the New York rate from 47½ to 50 cents an hour.

Aside from the usual argument for an equal wage here, the workers contend that with the very large amount of work that will be on this summer for new skyscrapers and in the erection of the Wabash bridges across the Monongahela and Ohio rivers and the Crucible Steel Company bridge at Clairton, many additional skilled men will be placed at work in this district, and these can only be such as have worked on extensive bridge work and the skyscrapers of the leading cities.

Men Cannot Be Gotten.

The leaders here say that the men cannot be brought here unless the wage is equal to that in the other large cities.

General Secretary-Treasurer D. F. McIntyre of Pittsburgh addressed the meeting yesterday in relation to the scale negotiations that have been on with the bridge company. Business Agent Boyd of the Pittsburgh organization also took an active part in the meeting.

The chief point of difference is over the Pittsburgh scale, which is to cover the operations of the company for a radius of 75 miles from Pittsburgh, as against 100 miles in the last scale.

The bridge company regards the demand for Pittsburgh as too sharp and has offered to meet it half way. The offer of the company is for 45 cents an hour. Besides, by reason of the heavy work that is to go forward here, the company wants a nine-hour day observed, so as to facilitate the work. This offer was rejected by the meeting yesterday.

Last Conference at Pencoyd.

The last conference between the officials of the workers and the bridge company was held in the Pencoyd offices at Pencoyd, Pa., February 3. At that time the company offered a revision of the workers' scale. On this the workers were to vote, the Pittsburgh meeting yesterday being the first to take action. The last conference at Pencoyd was between President Frank Buchanan and Secretary D. F. McIntyre, representing the workers, and Chief Engineer S. P. Mitchell and Erecting Manager H. F. Lofland, representing the bridge company.

It was officially stated after the meeting yesterday, to show how little the workers and bridge company people are apart, that the demands of the workers in all locals are for advances averaging between 10 and 15 per cent; that the bridge company has offered an average advance of about 10 per cent.

Scales Cover the Country.

In Pittsburgh the company offers 12½ per cent advance. Scales are provided also for all work in the United States that the bridge company will do in the next year. If the agreement is concluded this will swell the membership of the organization to probably 30,000 men.

It was pointed out that with the little general difference on wages an agreement is likely before the new scale year starts, May 1. This is the first year that the workers' organization proposed a general scale. Heretofore scales have been made separately for the different local organizations.

After the locals have voted on the last offers of the bridge company the officials will report results to the bridge company and it is expected that another conference or other means of settlement will be arranged.

It is said that other leading steel erecting concerns have stated readiness to meet any settlement made by the American Bridge Company.

When there is frequent "hawking" of mucus, hoarseness, a hacking cough, or corresponding symptoms, more serious pulmonary troubles are to be apprehended. Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant will remove such obstructions and effect a permanent cure.
